

GALA DAY FOR VETERANS OF INDIANA GRAND ARMY

VETERANS CANVASS PAST YEAR'S WORK

First Business Session of Department
G. A. R. Hears Commander's Address and Reports

NATIONAL COMMANDER BROWN IS PRESENT

Business affairs of the Indiana department, Grand Army of the Republic, were taken up with the opening session of the twenty-eighth annual encampment, which was called to order at Princess rink at 10 o'clock this morning, with a very large representation of delegates and past post commanders from every section of Indiana. Department Commander E. R. Brown, of Monticello, presided, and the session was especially notable from the fact that Gen. R. B. Brown, of Zanesville, Ohio, national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, and Joseph W. O'Neill, of Lebanon, Ohio, adjutant general of the national organization, were in attendance with the Indiana comrades.

There was the usual ritualistic opening ceremonies, in the course of which Rev. W. P. McKinley, chaplain of the Indiana reform school at Plainfield, offered prayer. Rev. Mr. McKinley officiated in the absence of Department Chaplain J. E. Bell, who, during the past year, removed to Braddock, Pa.

W. H. Wortman, of this city, had been named by Commander Brown as officer of the day and John Jones, also of Fort Wayne, was detailed as officer of the guard. Following the report of the committee on credentials the roll of department officers and posts was called.

Commander Brown's Address.

This was followed by the annual address of Department Commander Brown, who spoke in part as follows: Comrades of the Department Encampment: The weeks and months have sped swiftly by and we are now convened in our Twenty-Eighth Annual Encampment. It must be evident to us all that in most respects, if not in every respect, we meet under auspicious conditions, as well as with delightful environments. That we are spared thus to come together again, to grasp each other's loyal hands, look into each other's kindly faces and enjoy each other's splendid comradeship for the period of another encampment, is of itself a great privilege which should not only bring us unfeigned joy as I know it does, but should awaken in us deep gratitude to the Great Giver of all good. Let us also address ourselves to the work before us and discharge the responsibilities devolving upon us as members of this Encampment and members of a great and honored order, all the more faithfully and earnestly, and with an invigorated, sweeter spirit because we have been thus so highly favored.

Soon after being chosen Department Commander, disquieting misgivings, hard to control and impossible to dismiss, began to force themselves upon me. But after going carefully over the situation as I had often done before, I could only resolve that I would go forward and do my best (that is "put in my best ticks" as we read in "The Hoosier Schoolmaster"), trusting to the considerate judgment of those concerned. Adhering to such a course and sustained by such a trust, I have served thus far in my term. Nevertheless, I shall never be surprised to learn that I have made mistakes, or that I have been guilty of shortcomings. Among the Posts and Comrades.

The Commander's work among the Posts and Comrades affords him many delightful experiences, though sometimes involving "the strenuous life." To make his personal influence felt in all parts of the Department, much less to visit every Post, is not possible in one brief year. I have made it my rule to respond to every direct call, not in conflict with some previous appointment. I find I have visited fifty of our ninety-two counties. If illness at the end of the winter had not frustrated a plan I had to visit a number of Posts in the southwestern part of the state, I would regard my record with more complacency. During the summer and fall I attended a large number of reunions and other meetings of interest to soldiers. Through the winter I attended still more Post anniversaries, banquets, camps and installation services. I also had the peculiar pleasure of taking part in the dedication of the Montgomery county soldiers' monument at Crawfordsville, the home of my Alma Mater.

Some reunions, the attendance of Grand Army comrades and those eligible to membership as large and a fine opportunity is afforded to plead the cause of our order.

Membership.

I began my term with high ambitions concerning our membership and fondly hoped it might be kept for a defining. In this I have been doomed to disappointment, at least as far as the latest reports indicate. They show a net loss of 473. Some of our statistics are as follows:

Whole number of members in good standing Dec. 31, 1906.....	14,488
Total number received during 1906, all sources.....	1,104
Total.....	15,592
Died during the year 1906.....	509
Loss from all other sources.....	1,065
Total loss.....	1,574
Leaving a net loss of 473 members, as stated.
We had December 31, 1905, Posts.....	398
Gained during 1906.....	2
Loss—Disbanded.....	400
Number in good standing December 31, 1906.....	885
Net loss of Posts.....	13

However, it will be noted that these reports all close with December 31, 1906, so that any changes since then do not appear. I have strong hopes that subsequent reports, covering as they will some of the best winter months of my term, and embracing the fresher methods and enthusiastic labors of the new officers installed in January, may make a better showing.

Nothing in this report is more gratifying to me than that during the year the Department has lived within its income. Though the report of the Assistant Quartermaster-General shows up its face a small deficit, that is explained by the fact that he thought best to pay certain regular items of expense nearer up to date than was done last year. Counting actual expenses incurred and actual income for the corresponding period, a small balance is left on the credit side of the ledger.

Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home.

I have visited the Knightstown Home twice, once to attend commencement last June, and once with our Department Visiting Committee in November. Like all comrades conversant with this Home, I have long been in love with it. But going there as Department Commander, have assiduously striven to keep my mind unbiased and my eyes and ears open, as well to detect any wrong that might need righting, as to recognize the good that is being done and be able to give proper credit. With equal disinterestedness and alertness I have also pursued outside investigations. We all know this Home has recently been on trial.

As a result of my inquiries and other inquiries, I have no hesitancy in saying that a person who finds fault with this institution must do so on principle and not because of any serious defects in its administration. It seems evident to me that those who in recent months, particularly during the session of the last legislature—covetly, in the dark, mostly wearing masks and having other characteristics of the assassin—were after our Orphans' Home; were seeking its life rather than seeking to improve its character.

State Soldiers' Home.

I have made but one visit to our Soldiers' Home, though I have often been there before. On this visit I took neither whitewash nor mud, nor have I been provided with either since my return. I know for myself about this institution. It is familiar ground to me, and a large number of its members, as well as its official staff, I am proud to consider my personal friends. I was one of those, who in a humble way, toiled at its foundations and have steadily lent a hand as its walls, bastions and pillars have risen from the ground. I make no apology to any man for its existence. If it needs such poor assistance as I am able to give, I stand ready to defend it. And in any respect that it merits praise, as it does in many respects, I am not ashamed in any presence to praise it.

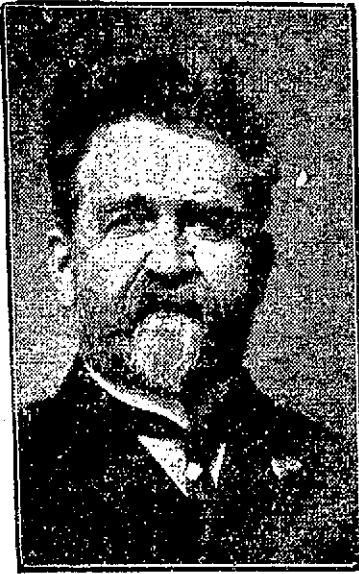

None of us can forget that our Soldiers' Home was born in this city of Fort Wayne, and in this very room. In the encampment held here fifteen years ago last April, after a full and free discussion, it was decided to establish a Soldiers' Home for the soldiers and their wives. For beginning, an appropriation was made out of our own funds for buildings, and a committee was appointed to secure a location.

MAKES EYELASHES TO ORDER.

Mrs. J. W. Armstrong, of Indianapolis, Ind., has been successful in securing a patent for a new method of making eyelashes to order. The patent was granted her by the United States Patent Office.

London, May 23.—"Please send me another dozen eyelashes."

This is a sample of numerous orders being received by an ingenious inventor who has created a demand among women beauty seekers for false eyelashes to replace nature's eye fringes with which the owners are dissatisfied. The patentee claims that hundreds of women are eagerly buying eyelashes, especially those who spend much time in automobiling. They visit him to be fitted in the first instance, but after their preliminary fixture the lashes keep in good shape for a month. They may then need a little attention, such as curling with warm tongs and receiving a touch of a special fluid.

FINNISH DIET MEETS.

Helsingfors, Finland, May 23.—Pursuant to a decree issued by Nicholas, emperor of Russia and grand duke of Finland, the members of the first single chamber diet of Finland, elected under the new constitution, assembled for the first time yesterday, but beyond the verification of credentials, no business was transacted. The election of a president will take place tomorrow and the delivery of the formal speech opening the diet has been postponed until October.

WAR VETERANS IN ANNUAL PARADE

Splendid Martial Spectacle Given by Men Who Knew the March and the Battle in Civil War.

SOLDIERS OF STATE GUARD ARE IN LINE

Tramp! tramp! tramp! The soldiers that were and the soldiers that are came up the street. Veterans of the great war of the union and troops of the Indiana National Guard—heroes who on many a bloody field had their baptism of fire and young men just as ready, if need be, to follow where their fathers had not feared to tread.

It was the twenty-eighth annual parade of the Indiana department of the Grand Army of the Republic. With the gleaming folds of Old Glory tossing free in the balmy May breezes, with blare of bands, with roll of drums, with feeling cheers of uncounted thousands who lined the long route of the march, the veterans went on in impressive procession, an army that had known the battle and all the multiplied horrors of war, yet in peaceful parade.

Grizzled and Bent, March Bravely. It was inspiring, yet pathetic, to look upon the long line of blue-clad veterans. There were no young men in the parading files. The marks of time were upon them all. The more than two-score years that have elapsed since peace mastered out the grandest fighters in the greatest armies of the greatest war the world has ever known have frosted the locks and grizzled the cheeks and bent the forms and halted the steps of the soldiers of the armies which answered the battle trumpet almost half a century ago.

But they marched well, those blue-clad men with the bronze badge upon their breasts. Not with the spring and swing of the younger soldiery of the guard, not with the vigor and eagerness with which they themselves marched forth to battle where rebellion's hoasting legions awaited their coming, but they were soldiers and like soldiers they bore themselves in the splendid martial pageant that marked the red letter day of the encampment.

From a Thousand Battlefields. The army of veterans in that great parade were recruited from a thousand bloody fields. There men who fought from the opening engagements of the great war until the last swords had been sheathed, the last arms stacked, the last hostile flag furled in defeat. There were men who had fought the opening clashes of the great conflict, men who shared in Grant's early triumphs in the west, men who had participated in the fortunes of the army of the Potomac through the long, dark days of that splendid legion's struggle with the mastery Lee, men who stood up to the brunt in the fierce conflict at Appomattox. From every army of the union, from every battlefield of the southland these veterans came. Under the blue blouses must have been many emotions. Written in the records of those men was a tale of valor and heroism, of martial prowess and of victory no master of words has power to put down for the nation to read.

Commander Reviews Them. Past the reviewing stand these veterans marched to salute and receive the approbation of their commander-in-chief. General Brown's pride in the Indiana veterans was manifest. The veneration and respect of the veterans for their commander was quite as distinct. He admired and honored them. They were his comrades, he theirs. They had in common that sentiment only those men can feel who have stood shoulder to shoulder or have ridden boot to boot to shrill of bugle and snarl of drum where there was the deadly hiss of rifle and mortal clash of steel, where "reeking tube and iron shrapnel" put the souls of men to the test of fire.

And so they tramped past with the consciousness that they were soldiers who had known the march and had swept bloody fields. The blare of many bands straining at well known martial airs inspired their feet and gave year-burdened forms the strength to go through with what must be a hard stint for men whose young manhood was spent in a war that closed over two score years ago.

The Formation of Parade.

The parade was scheduled to start at 2 o'clock. All the forenoon there had been something of the pomp and circumstances of war. From every direction there came the visiting companies of the Indiana National Guard, with their martial trappings and there were the arriving delegations of veterans to take part in the annual parade. Bands marched upon and down the streets, escorting military companies to their quarters. For an hour before the parade started the scene along East Berry street and the cross streets, where the divisions of the parade formed, were of the most animated sort.

Chief Marshal Amos R. Walter and his staff were busy as men could well be getting the parade formed. It was a big martial task, but with knowledge of how things military should be performed order was brought out of what seemed chaos and soon after the hour scheduled for the parade to start all was in readiness. Sharp commands were given and with flags streaming gayly, with the band of the Knights-town Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan's home playing a stirring air, the first division swank into line.

A platoon of Fort Wayne's finest under command of Chief of Police Ankenbruck led the procession. Then came Chief Marshal Walter and his staff handsomely mounted. The first division was commanded by James Ligger.

Jasper Packard Post, No. 508, G. A. R., of the Indiana Soldiers' home at Lafayette was given the post of honor in the parade, and honor that has repeatedly been accorded this noted organization of veterans. Following were the Grand Army posts of Indiana from No. 1 to 300. Some of the posts were represented in a body and others were represented by a few members to march in all cases as separate organizations. Following these were Department Commander Brown and the other department officers in uniform.

The Second Division, under command of Captain Isaac D'Isay was headed by the superb City Packard band, of Fort Wayne. Visiting Ohio and Michigan G. A. R. delegations were given the post of honor in this division. Then followed as organizations where possible and otherwise massed where not practicable to appear as separate posts, the Grand Army posts of Indiana from No. 201 to No. 502. In carriages followed the department officers of the Indiana Women's Relief corps and the officers of the Ladies of the G. A. R.

The Third division under command of Capt. Scott Swann, of Fort Wayne, marched to the music of the Citizens' band of Fort Wayne. Slon S. Bass Post and the Lawton-Wayne post, G. A. R., with a splendid show of numbers made up the bulk of this division. Then came Camp No. 51, of the Union Veteran Legion, of this city, which organization made a fine showing. Then followed Capt. James B. White camp, No. 171, Sons of Veterans, and H. W. Lawton camp, No. 3, United Spanish War Veterans and the veterans of the Philippines. These last two organizations of veteran soldiers were young. Their war experience had begun more than thirty years after the war of the older veterans had closed.

Soldiers of the Guard.

From a spectacular point of view the fourth division of the parade was altogether the most interesting. Here were soldiers in the well known blue uniform, carrying real guns, commanded by officers flashing bright swords and marching with a swing and dash and executing the drill of the march with a trained and ready precision that bespoke the soldier under the discipline of the martinet and drill master. There were artillerymen mounted, artillerymen riding gun and caisson, artillerymen afoot all in the red-trimmed uniforms of that branch of the service. These were the soldiers of the Indiana National guard of which many companies came in from many northern Indiana points to reinforce the Fort Wayne commands in doing honor to the annual parade of the veterans of the war of the sixties.

Major Aubrey L. Kuhlman, of Auburn, one of the field officers of the Second Regiment, I. N. G., commanded the division of the guards and the Second Regiment band, of Auburn, furnished the march music. The Hibernian Rifles, of Fort Wayne, made a fine appearance in this division and Fort Wayne Battery B with its equipment of field artillery gave an added dash to the spectacle.

Captain E. J. Lennon, commanding the fifth division led a most striking brigade of uniformed men. They were the Ninth Regiment, Indiana brigade of the Uniform Rank of the Knights of Pythias and Fort Wayne Canton, No. 17, of the I. O. O. F., military branches of their respective orders.

The parade was soon under motion and with half-dressed, fresh breezes and cheering thousands of spectators the grand military pageant was conducted under all favorable auspices.

The crowds that witnessed the parade were many thousands. Practically all of Fort Wayne had gathered along the three-mile route of the parade and these were reinforced by tens of thousands who had come from points outside.

On Reviewing Stand.

The reviewing stand, which had been erected on Barr street, a short distance south of the city hall, was prettily decorated, and from this point a distinguished assemblage of guests reviewed the imposing pageant as it neared the end of its march. Among those who occupied places upon the reviewing stand were Commander-in-Chief R. B. Brown, of Zanesville, O.; Adjutant General Joseph W. O'Neill, Department Commander H. R. Brown, of Indiana, with other department officers; Department President Alice E. Waugh, with other department officers of the Women's Relief corps; Department President Eliza E. Browning and other department officers of the Ladies of the G. A. R.; Lieutenant Governor Hugh T. Miller and other distinguished guests of the city.

Estimates of the crowd of visitors in the city today vary widely, ranging from 20,000 to 30,000, but it is certain that the attendance has reached a high figure, and as the day has advanced the crowd is fully as large as has attended any recent department encampment. All are agreed, however, that but for the downpour of rain yesterday and the unsettled weather prospects for today, the Fort Wayne encampment would have broken all records for attendance.

Began Under Sunshine.

Preparations for the annual parade today began under weather conditions which promised a rather more favorable performance than that which greeted Wednesday's arrivals as they reached Fort Wayne in a downpour of rain. The sun was peeping out fitfully at intervals from skies that were still overcast, but there was hope that Jupiter Pluvius might smile on the premier spectacular event of the big encampment. Alternating between sunshine and shadow the morning preparations went forward, to the music of many bands, the beating of drums, the marching of delegations and the arrival of thousands of visitors who came by trolley lines and by steam roads.

Judge Walter Olds, chairman of the committee on reception, was called to Chicago early today, and the duty of that position devolved upon Albert E. McLaughlin and other assistants upon the big committee.

National Commander Arrives.

General R. B. Brown, of Zanesville, O., national commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, accompanied by his adjutant general, Joseph W. O'Neill, of Lebanon, Ohio, arrived in the city early this morning from Danville, Ill., where they were in attendance at the Illinois department encampment. Both visitors immediately sought their rooms at the Wayne hotel to get a few hours' rest from the trial of travel.

Post delegations from near-by cities which had been on the ground since yesterday morning were augmented by additional comrades who poured into the city in tremendous numbers, and several of the posts were accompanied by bands or drum corps.

Major A. L. Kuhlman, of Auburn, so located to command the provisional regiment of the Indiana National Guard, was another early arrival, and with his staff took up headquarters at the rendezvous in the old high school building.

Ohio Commander Here.

Ohio sent its delegations to join Indiana comrades in the parade. One of the early post arrivals was that from Lima, Ohio—Mart Armstrong post of forty men and a drum corps, which came as the personal escort of George A. Harman, department commander of the Ohio G. A. R.

The Schland band reached the city at 10:30 o'clock at the head of fully seventy-five members of J. R. Slack post No. 127, of Huntington, to participate in the parade scheduled for the afternoon.

Kosciusko post, of Warsaw, was another organization which came in strong numbers, and the DeKalb battalion composed of DeKalb county veterans of the civil war came into town over the Lake Shore railroad and the Toledo and Chicago Interurban.

The Monticello drum corps, which reached the city last evening, marched to the Wahash depot at 5 o'clock today and met the post from the White county town, numbering 40 members, and company C, third regiment, Indiana national guard, fifty men in command of Captain Brown. Company H, of Warsaw, 37 men, Captain Orville Kilmer, the color company of the regiment arrived over the Pennsylvania railroad at 7:50 o'clock, and aboard the same train was Company F, third regiment, South Bend, in command of Captain Harry Faulkner.

meat, Indiana National guard, under Captain O. E. Faust. At the head of the line was carried a banner admonishing the encampment to "Come to Kokomo in 1908."

Lieutenant Governor Here.

Hon. Hugh T. Miller, of Columbus, lieutenant governor of Indiana, arrived in the city this morning to spend a day with the veterans, and is a guest at the home of Charles R. Lane. Governor Hanly was prevented by illness from attendance at the encampment, and in his absence Lieutenant Governor Miller will represent the state officials. Another prominent arrival of the day is Brigadier General Oran Perry, of Indianapolis, adjutant general of Indiana.

During the morning hours the City Packard band gave a concert program from the band stand at the court house, entertaining thousands of visitors.

Van Wert and Montpelier were other Ohio cities who sent large delegations, both of veterans and other citizens, to the Indiana encampment.

The only colored G. A. R. post in Indiana, Martin Delaney post, No. 70, of Indianapolis, arrived during the morning in charge of its commander, H. Brown, headed by its drum corps, with twenty men in line.

Bluffton Sent a Crowd.

Low Dalley post, G. A. R., of Bluffton, had one of the very largest representations of the morning, more than 150 veterans from that city arriving, with as many other residents of that town. Altogether more than 300 Bluffton folks are participating in the day's festivities. The post brought its drum corps.

Seventy-five members of Jasper Packard post, the G. A. R. organization at the State Soldiers' home in Lafayette, reached the city shortly after noon, headed by the martial band from the home, and a big delegation of Lafayette citizens accompanied them.

The National Military home at Marion is also very largely represented by its veterans, who are here to mingle once more with old comrades.

Thomas Toomey in Line.

Fort Wayne veterans were especially gratified this morning when Thomas Toomey marched into headquarters and secured a badge, declaring that he would be on hand for the parade this afternoon. Every veteran in the city, as well as hundreds outside of Fort Wayne, know Mr. Toomey, and delight to honor his record as a soldier. He has been seriously ill from erysipelas and it was feared he would be unable to attend the encampment, but he pluckily climbed from a sick bed, assuring that he had not missed a veterans' parade in Fort Wayne for many years and he didn't propose to be out of the present one. "It would have killed me if I couldn't have been out with the old boys today," said Mr. Toomey. "Too weak to march as has always been his custom, he was provided with a carriage."

Major Kuhlman and his staff, including Lieutenant Denison, Lieutenant Humphreys and Lieutenant Lochner, adjutant, surgeon and quartermaster, respectively, organized the regiment of the Indiana national guard for the parade, and the showing was a fine one.

Every Company Here.

Every company which had been scheduled to come was on hand. They comprised company G, First Infantry, Goshen, Capt. Henry W. Pease; company G, Third Infantry, Columbia City, Capt. S. N. Markey; company L, Third Infantry, Peru, Capt. E. S. Phillips; company I, Second regiment, Kokomo, Capt. O. E. Faust; company C, Second regiment, Bluffton, Lieut. Leon S. Locke; company E, Third Infantry, Elkhart, Lieut. Fred M. Eby; company H, Third Infantry, Warsaw, Capt. O. B. Kilmer; company F, Third Infantry, South Bend, Capt. Harry E. Faulkner; company I, Third Infantry, Plymouth, Capt. J. F. Thomas; company C, Third Infantry, Monticello, Lieut. A. B. Gray; company K, Third Infantry, Auburn, Lieut. Lester Feagler; company D, Third Infantry, Fort Wayne, Capt. C. F. Deisbach; and company B, Third Infantry, Angola, Capt. G. J. Shaughtons. The battalions were in command of Major J. R. Harrison, of Columbus City; Capt. G. C. Crall and Capt. Arthur H. Brown.

JOE CANNON IS STILL THE RANKEST OF STANDPATS

Sidesteps, Though, on a Tale That He is Running for President.

Washington, May 23.—Speaker Cannon, on having his attention called to a report which has gained currency, that he is out for tariff revision as a presidential candidate and has abandoned the stand-patters, said:

"I do not know where the 'grapevine' originated. The only knowledge I have in the matter is the reports. In the campaign of a year ago the republican party won victory which gave the Sixtieth congress, which organizes in December next, upon the cry 'Let well enough alone,' and I have no doubt that the Sixtieth congress so elected will be true to the pledges made in the campaign."

LADIES OF THE G. A. R. MEET IN STATE CONVENTION

Fourteenth Annual Assembly is Proving Successful Meeting.

The Fourteenth Annual Convention of the Ladies of the G. A. R., which holds its annual meeting at the same time of the state encampment, is in session in the city, and late Wednesday afternoon opened headquarters in rooms 70 and 71 of the Randall hotel. The organization is represented by nearly all of the state officers, and two hundred members assembled from all parts of the state.

Mrs. Eliza E. Browning, of Attica, is department president of the Ladies of the G. A. R., and her staff of officers includes Mrs. Pearl Wright, of Logansport, senior vice-president; Mrs. Ivy Wagoner, of Washington, junior vice-president; Mrs. Emma Porter, of Rensselaer, treasurer; Mrs. Lilly Elliott, of Lafayette, secretary; Mrs. Emma Beach, of Aurora, chaplain; and Mrs. Sue R. Beals, of this city, counselor; and the council of administration, Mrs. Jesse Murphy, of Logansport; Mrs. Elizabeth Walizer, of Whiting; and Mrs. Elvina Castle, of West Point.

At 10 o'clock this morning nearly two hundred members of the Ladies of the G. A. R. assembled at the Pythian home on Washington boulevard, Mrs. Elizabeth Browning, of Attica, department president presiding, who appointed the following committees—Conductors, Mrs. C. Graves, of Lafayette, and Mrs. S. C. Sawtell, of this city; guards, Martha Hay, of Indianapolis, Celina Hosman, of Peru; assistant secretary, Alice Kramer, of Lafayette; press committee, Elvina Castle, of West Point, Cora Leach, of Indiana Harbor, and Grace Carman, of Oxford; credential committee, Mary Stirk, of this city, and Mary Goodridge, of Petersburg; committee on reports, Lucy Colman, of Elkhart, Rebekah Hanna, of Monticello, and Catherine Snyder, of Elkhart; on resolutions, Anna McCoy, of Vincennes, Mayme Doyle, of Elkhart, Fanny McAllister, of Marion. Committee on greetings to the G. A. R., and W. R. C., Rebekah Hollis, of Washington; Fanny Gibson, of Fort Wayne. The committee on courtesies consists of all the past department presidents, eleven in number.

The larger part of the time at the morning session, after the various committees had been appointed, was taken up in the transaction of routine matters, and the hearing of the reports. Out of the twenty-three circles in the state, twenty-two were represented at the meeting. The annual address of the department president was received with keen interest in which the condition of the order was reviewed, and the organization of a new circle at Oxford, by Miss Grace Carman, March 16, was announced. The spirit of the address was a very patriotic one, in entire accord with the nature of the meeting.

Heard Commander-in-Chief.

Just before the conclusion of the morning session R. B. Brown, of Zanesville, Ohio, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., was escorted to the chair, and received an ovation. He made a spirited address commending the work of the ladies and urged on them as their ranks were diminished in numbers by death of the members, they should overcome the loss by an increased devotion of the others, and though the circle be often broken they should at once join hands and press forward in the work. Short addresses were made by Adjutant General Joseph O'Neal and the other members of the staff.

After the military parade in the afternoon there was a roll call of the committees, and their reports received and an exemplification of the ritual. Considerable campaigning is being done by the candidates for the various offices. Mrs. Jennie Irvine, of New Albany, and Mrs. Ivy Wagoner, of Washington, are candidates for department president. There are a number of others asking for the minor offices. The election will be held early Friday morning.

NO ONE TO BLAME.

Manila, May 23.—A committee of Filipinos appointed to investigate the inoculation of prisoners at Bilibid prison with contaminated serum, while a series of experiments with cholera virus were being conducted last November has made a report.

The committee finds that no one was responsible for the accident and specifically exonerates Dr. R. P. Strong, of the bureau of science, who was in charge of the bacteriological work of the laboratory system, and was conducting the experiments.

The ladies of the Tohono Embroidery club will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Eliza Mosiman, 222 East DeWald street.

JUDGE JAMES HARGIS GOES ACQUIT IN KENTUCKY

Principal Figure in Feud Murder Charges Freed by a Jury.

Lexington, Ky., May 23.—Almost exactly three years after the shooting of Town Marshal Thomas Cockrill at Jackson, a verdict of not guilty was returned here today in the case of Judge James Hargis, the first of those who were jointly charged with that murder, and another chapter in the famous Breathitt county feud annals was concluded.

On June 21, 1904, Cockrill was shot in the court house at Jackson, dying later at Lexington where he was taken for medical attention, and during the trial several witnesses swore that Judge Hargis, his brothers and Sheriff Ed Callahan had entered into a murder conspiracy promising immunity to any one who would shoot Cockrill, Dr. B. D. Cox and J. B. Marcum, all three of whom have since died by shooting. The defense, however, presented testimony tending to disprove the conspiracy charge and Judge Hargis, testifying on his own behalf, denied all connection with the shooting. Curt Jett, who confessed to killing Marcum for which he was given a life sentence, was a witness against Judge Hargis.

The next trial in this series will be called at Sandy Hook, Elliott county, on Monday, May 27, when the same defendants will be tried for the murder of Dr. B. D. Cox, at Jackson, on April 14, 1902, a change of venue having been taken from Breathitt county.

When the verdict in the Hargis trial was announced today a great cheer arose from the friends of Judge Hargis, who crowded the court room and it was necessary for Circuit Judge Watts Parker to rap repeatedly for order.

Judge Hargis will leave this afternoon for Sandy Hook, Elliott county, where on next Monday the trial of Judge James, Senator Alex and Elbert Hargis, Edward Callahan, John Smith and John Abner for the murder of Dr. B. D. Cox will be called. It is believed now that the cases of Alex and Elbert Hargis and Ed Callahan, also charged with complicity in plots to kill Cockrill, will be filed away in the court here. The evidence is practically the same against the other three men, as well as Bill Britton, who is awaiting a third trial for this killing. Britton gave good bond this morning for his appearance at the next term of court in the sum of $7,500. His bond was signed by Judge James and Alex Hargis. Britton was not allowed to leave the county jail, being at once re-arrested for the assassination of Dr. Cox. Britton has been twice tried for the Cockrill murder. He was sentenced to life imprisonment once and the jury disagreed here three weeks ago. Britton has been in jail here nearly three years.

The Hargis case has been on trial here for over two weeks. More than fifty witnesses were examined. This is the second acquittal of Hargis, he having been declared not guilty of the murder of James B. Marcum at his trial at Beattyville last July.

LAWTON'S REGIMENT TO ATTEND UNVEILING OF MONUMENT

Regimental Association Holds Meeting to Arrange for the Trip.

The meeting of the Thirtieth Indiana Regimental association, scheduled at 8:30 o'clock this morning at the assembly room of the court house for the purpose of making arrangements to attend the unveiling of the Lawton monument at Indianapolis next week, was not held until 1 o'clock this afternoon.

This is Gen. Lawton's old regiment and it was desired that as many members of the association attend the unveiling as could possibly be mustered. There was a gratifying attendance at the gathering and all expressed a determination to be present at the ceremonies. Jasper N. Olwin, of Cromwell, the secretary of the association was not present nor was the president and an informal session was held. A report was received that no rates will be granted by railroads or interurbans and the idea of having the members assemble here and go in a body was abandoned.

The regiment will carry with it the old flag of the regiment which has been shot to tatters and under which 139 fell dead and wounded at the battle of Shiloh.

VERY CRITICALLY ILL.

Ex-Commissioner Ferguson at Home of Daughter in Delphos.

Friends of Hon. Matthew A. Ferguson, former county commissioner, have been advised that he is very critically ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. W. Reube in Delphos, O., and it is feared he cannot long survive.

Mr. Ferguson went to Delphos about three months ago to visit his daughter.

SENSATIONAL DISCLOSURES.

New Form of Graft and Booding in Chicago.

Chicago, Ill., May 23.—The grand jury today began an exhaustive examination into sensational charges that midwives and doctors in various parts of city had paid thousands of dollars "protection money" in connection with illegal surgical operations. The jury indicted Dr. Lucy Hagenow in connection with the death of Leo Middleton, of Salt Lake, Utah. Dr. Hagenow was called before the jury to testify at an interview credited to her but later denied, that she and others had exacted from year to year the sum of "bush" money paid to a regularly organized clique of politicians and police. State Attorney Nease has assumed personal charge of the hearing.

The victims are mostly girls and women from the country coming here through advertisements in such regular publications as would handle them.

STRIKERS REMAIN FIRM AND MEETING IS OF NO AVAIL

Conference at Randall Hotel Develops No Good Results.

A meeting between the business men who were appointed deputy sheriffs and a committee from the striking gray iron moulders of the Bass works, was held at the Randall hotel this morning and developed the fact that the men are not prepared to agree to go back to work as individuals and are still holding out for a signed scale and practically a closed shop.

In face of the position of John H. Bass, which has been repeated so often by him to the effect that he will take back all of the men on the same terms as they went out and will include the members of the committees if they will come within a reasonable time, was a stumbling block that neither the strikers nor the deputies could overcome and an adjournment was taken after a short consultation.

The committee was headed by Antonio Walker, and he stated that so far as the union is concerned there is absolutely no change in the conditions. The works are still picketed, but the men inside are as quiet as those who are watching them and the situation is absolutely devoid of new features.

POLICE AND STRIKERS CLASH.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 23.—The police and a number of striking freight handlers clashed today at the Lehigh freight house at the Tift farm. Leonardo Aze and Carlo Angelo, strikers, are under arrest, the former with a bullet wound in his right thigh. The police say about twenty-five strikers attacked the freight house. The shot was fired by Policeman Larkin, who was badly handled by the strikers. Order was soon restored.

A Change in Methods of Lending Money

Has come about in recent years. Things are not as they used to be. The leading companies of today offer more generous terms, modern equipment and the most private plans for loaning money to persons temporarily embarrassed, on household goods, piano, horses or other personal property, without the knowledge of the borrower's friends or any one else. The methods that brought the business of loaning money in small amounts on chattels and salaries into bad repute are the kind that.

GOVERNOR HANLY IS AT HOME FROM EAST

Looks Like a Different Man—Health is About Restored.

Indianapolis, May 23.—Governor Hanly returned to Indianapolis this morning, after a three weeks' trip in the east. He looked a different man physically and it was evident that the trip had done him good. He had good color, his voice had its accustomed ring, his hand his old-time grip, and though he looked as if he has not entirely regained his strength he was much improved. Mrs. Hanly returned with the governor.

The first act of the governor on reaching the executive office in the state house today, was to get in communication with Mayor John Boehne, at Evansville, concerning the strike situation there.

"Mayor Boehne tells me that the city is quiet; that the civil force has been sufficient to meet any probable needs, and that the people of the city are standing by him in support of a law and order program," said the governor. "The mayor spoke about several boys stoning a car last night and said that they were heavily fined this morning."

The governor spent the morning in consultation with Fred Gemmer, his secretary, getting in touch with the business of the office that had accumulated since his absence. He said that he would take work slowly for a few days.

"Atlantic City is a delightful place for a rest and recreation at this time of the year," the governor said. "I made tremendous gains during the time I was there, especially the first week. The weather was all that could be desired. Several of my friends came there for a few days while Mrs. Hanly and I were there, among them being 'Bob' Tracewell and Dr. H. W. Kellogg and his family."

The governor spent Sunday with Dr. Kellogg at Wilmington, Del. Yesterday the governor and his wife visited the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburg. "It is a wonderful institution," said he, "a wonderful gift. We were fortunate in being there yesterday during the exhibit of oil paintings. I want to go there some time and spend a week."

Entertainment to Be Repeated Friday Night at Princess Rink.

The "Upside Down" minstrels of the Library Hall athletic association will be repeated at the Princess rink tomorrow evening for the benefit of the visiting veterans. The inclemency of the weather and the reception to veterans prevented a satisfactory attendance last evening and it is desired to have the visiting soldiers enjoy the entertainment and general excellence of the "Upside Down."

WOMEN IN THE UNITED STATES WHO WORK FOR LIVING

A Census Bureau Report Shows Number to Be 14,000,000.

Washington, May 23.—Women at work in the United States is the subject of a report just issued by the census bureau, based on the returns in 1900. In that year in continental United States—by which is meant the United States exclusive of Alaska, Hawaii and other outlying possessions—the total number of women sixteen years old and over was 23,485,559, while those at work number 14,833,630. The women at work were mostly young; 68.4 per cent. being under 35 years old; 41.2 per cent. under 25, and 25.6 per cent. had not reached the age of 21; 15.9 percent. were married; 17.7 per cent. were widows, and 1.3 per cent. were divorced.

The number of divorced women returned by the census, the report says, is probably deficient, because the fact of divorce is not always admitted. But it is significant that of the number reported divorced, 55.3 per cent. were supporting themselves wholly or in part. The total number of women at work includes 11,771,966 native white women, whose parents also were natives; 1,040,744 native white women, one or both of whose parents were immigrants; 840,011 white women who were themselves immigrants; 1,114,621 negro women, and 11,286 Indian and Mongolian women.

The number of women at work more than doubled in the twenty years from 1880 to 1900 and there was a noticeable increase of bread winners among married women in 1900, as compared with 1890.

In 1900 women were represented in all but nine of the 303 occupations in which bread-winners of the country were engaged. The returns showed, among other things, that five females were employed as pilots; on steam railroads ten were employed as baggage-men; thirty-one as brakemen; seven as conductors; forty-five as engineers and firemen; and twenty-three as switchmen, yardmen and flag-men; twenty-three were carriage and hack drivers; six were reported as ship carpenters and two as roofers and slaters; 135 were returned as blacksmiths and 508 as machinists; eight were boiler-makers; thirty-one were charcoal, coke and lime burners and eleven were well-borers.

Two women were reported as motormen. Almost one-fourth of the total number of women at work were servants; 456,405 were farm laborers, 96.8 per cent. of whom were from the southern states, and 361,804 were negroes. There were 338,144 dress-makers, 337,306 teachers, 328,935 laundresses, 307,706 farmers, 231,458 textile mill operators and 146,929 housekeepers and stewardesses.

A HARD DEBT TO PAY.

"I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be paid off," writes G. S. Clark, of Westfield, Iowa, "for my rescue from death by Dr. King's New Discovery. Both lungs were so seriously affected that death seemed imminent, when I commenced taking New Discovery. The ominous dry, hacking cough quit before the first bottle was used, and two more bottles made a complete cure." Nothing has ever equaled New Discovery for coughs, colds and all throat and lung complaints. Guaranteed by Dreier & Bro., druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

The Spanish government has just laid a submarine cable from Barcelona to Palma de Mallorca, in the Balearic islands. The cable is 117 miles long, and was put down by a London company in less than two days. The contract price, $145,995, will be paid by the Spanish government. The line has long been needed for commercial purposes.

GOOD WORDS FOR CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

People everywhere take pleasure in testifying to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. Edward Phillips, of Barclay, Md., writes: "I wish to tell you that I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My little girl, Catherine, who is two years old, has been taking this remedy whenever she has had a cold since she was two months old. About a month ago I contracted a dreadful cold myself, but I took Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was soon as well as ever." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

HE FOUGHT AT GETTYSBURG.

David Parker, of Fayette, N. Y., who lost a foot at Gettysburg, writes: "Electric Bitters have done me more good than any medicine I ever took. For several years I had stomach trouble, and paid out much money for medicine to little purpose, until I began taking Electric Bitters. I would not take $500 for what they have done for me." Grand tonic for the aged and for female weaknesses. Great alternative and icky builder; sure cure for lame back and weak kidneys. Guaranteed by Dreier & Bro., druggists. 50c.

Let me mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Boon on either Dyspepsia, The Heart, or The Kidneys. Address me, Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—means Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. RELIEF FROM RHEUMATIC PAINS

"I suffered with rheumatism for over two years," says Mr. Rolland Curry, a patrolman, of Key West, Fla. "Sometimes it settled in my knees and lamed me so I could hardly walk, at other times it would be in my feet and hands so I was incapacitated for duty. One night when I was in severe pain and lame from it my wife went to the drug store here and came back with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I was rubbed with it and found the pain had nearly gone during the night. I kept on using it for a little more than two weeks and found that it drove the rheumatism away. I have not had any trouble from that disease for over three months." For sale by all druggists.

The proposition is being discussed to pull down the Bank of England building, which is one-story in height and covers eight acres, house it in a seven-story building on a portion of the site and sell the remainder of the land, the value of which is estimated at $32,500,000.

WAS WASTING AWAY.

"I had been troubled with kidney disease for the last five years," writes Robert R. Watts, of Salem, Mo. "I lost flesh and never felt well and doctored with leading physicians and tried all remedies suggested without relief. Finally I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and less than two bottles completely cured me and I am now sound and well." During the summer kidney irregularities are often caused by excessive drinking or being overheated. Attend to the kidneys at once by using Foley's Kidney Cure. Dreier & Bro.

GUATEMALA AND MEXICO.

The news that Mexico for several weeks has been quietly massing troops near the Guatemala frontier in anticipation of eventualities goes far to support the repeated statements that President Diaz expects trouble with his southern neighbor and means to be prepared for it when trouble comes.

Except for internal troubles and in latter days altogether with the intractable and warlike Yaquis, Mexico has enjoyed a long season of peace under Diaz. No so with Guatemala. There has been since 1839, when Guatemala broke away from the confederation of Central America, adopted a liberal constitution and plunged into a condition of chronic warfare with her neighbors, an ever-present tendency to resolve the office of president into that of dictator. Two conspicuous embodiments of this spirit were Rafael Carrera, who was made president for life in 1854, and Jose Maria Regna Barrios, who installed himself as dictator in 1897 and was assassinated in the following year.

Nor has Guatemala been able to resist the temptation of effecting by force a new union of the Central American states. In 1835 Rufus Barrios, who had come into power in 1873, fell in battle against the republics of Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Salvador, which had formed an alliance to preserve their independent existence. The movement toward federation by peaceful means inaugurated in 1895 came to naught after two years of negotiations.

Since 1899, when Manuel Estrada Cabrera became president, the country has frequently been torn by internal revolt, clashes at arms with her lesser neighbors and many serious quarrels with Mexico, although the larger nation has not been drawn into open war.

Guatemala declared war against Salvador and Honduras in February, 1903, which may be said to have continued intermittently ever since. In 1906, after a series of battles with the Salvadoran armies President Cabrera was accused by Mexico with having broken faith three hours after making an agreement with the president of Mexico to cease hostilities pending peace negotiations. Since that time feeling between the two nations has been friendly only from a strictly official point of view and Mexico has frequently expressed irritation at the acts of her neighbor.

Both nations have recently asserted that they are prepared for war. Guatemala, with 2,000,000 population, has an army of about 5,000 on a peace footing, with an unorganized militia of 57,000 and a reserve of 20,000, but it is not believed it could put more than 12,000 in the field at once.

The republic relies for its military forces largely upon the military training imposed on all schools, public and private. Altogether about 25,000 pupils are under military training in the Guatemalan schools. Guatemala's famous artillery corps consists of six batteries of four rapid fire guns each.

Mexico, on the other hand, has 120 guns in her artillery branch. Mexico's army consists of 15,061, infantry, 7,002 cavalry, 1,722 artillery, 2,314 other services, making a total of 27,702, inclusive of officers. The total fighting strength, including reserves, is said to be 120,500 infantry, 20,000 cavalry and 6,000 artillery. Every Mexican capable of carrying arms is liable for military service from his twentieth to his fiftieth year.

The Mexican navy in 1906 consisted of two dispatch vessels and two unarmored gun vessels, a steel training cruiser and four gunboats. The fleet is manned by 198 officers and 965 men.

GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.

The Grand Army of the Republic today occupies a vastly larger sphere than its organizers and early sponsors intended for it or even conceived. The organization has preserved not only the sacred and patriotic traditions of the great conflict of which its members are survivors, but it has with jealous guardianship looked out for the interests of the men who fought for the union. It has given splendid impetus to the teaching of patriotism in schools. It has nurtured a sentiment of veneration and respect for ex-soldiers that is without a parallel in any other country. It has made the care of widows and orphans of ex-soldiers its especial concern. It has caused to be provided on a scale impossible in any other country comfortable and enjoyable homes for those veterans who otherwise would have no homes. It has forced adequate pension legislation from congresses that oftentimes have displayed unreasonable and unaccountable reluctance to do for the soldiers of the union armies what the merits of their service and claims of their condition justly warranted. It has made memorial day one of the most widely observed and sacredly kept holiday occasions on the calendar of any nation. It has kept alive not the spirit of sectionalism but the spirit of that for which the great war was fought. It has been an amazingly powerful agent for philanthropy, for intensification of the national spirit, for the higher glory of the union. Small is the wonder that its members love that Grand Army of the Republic and are jealous of its glowing fame and untarnished name.

The frequency with which the crime of train wrecking has been committed in various sections of the country within the past few months suggests legislation specially designed to meet this unspeakable atrocity. The wrecking of a passenger train in California a day or two ago was planned and executed with an ingenuity that impresses itself as having been devised nowhere outside of hell itself. Scores of people were exposed to direst peril and it was no fault of the fiends who committed the crime that all on board the train were not launched through dreadful disaster into eternity. The Pennsylvania company for a season was persistently made the victim of the operations of wreckers and other railroads here and there have lately been subjected to similar criminal interference. Laws to reach those atrocities cannot be made too drastic.

Probably never was such a thing as complete peace since human trouble began in Eden. President recently took occasion to remark that the magazine stuff and occasional books on "Wild Animals I Have Met," "Domestic Life of the Bob Cat," "Teddy B., the Diary of a Bad Brown Bear,"

"Honk-Honk; or, the Wild Goose with the Wanderlust," and similar authentic works in natural history were more rot written by men who know nothing of the wild animals they claim to have personally known. Now comes back at him Rev. William G. Long, who has done some hobnobbing with four-footers all his life, and declares the president is a mere "killer" of animals and not a student of them. That will hold him for awhile, at least, and at all events until that other noted biographer of untamed quadrupeds comes back at Roosevelt in his dual character of the late Mr. Ernest Thompson and the present Mr. Ernest Thompson-Seton. And by the way, it is quite singular how that hyphen stuck to its post through all that cataclysmic wreck of names.

Fort Wayne is neither unforgiving nor vindictive, but the deal the government weather agent gave this town for the Grand Army encampment will be long remembered and in good time perhaps paid for.

Suppose that after the entire adult male population of Idaho has been exhausted trying to get a jury for Haywood, Colorado can kidnap him back again and try him there.

One of the Important Duties of Physicians and the Well-Informed of the World is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the approval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

Thirty-nine years since the "Big Store" was established in Fort Wayne. Old settlers remember the day when we opened our doors for the first time to the trading public. Within 30 days we sprang to the head of the trade, and from that day until now, have continued to lead the procession in our line of trade. Thus far in the present year our business excels that of any year in our long history.

LITTLE CHATS WITH AND ABOUT SOME OF THE WELL KNOWN VETERANS

Capt. George F. McGinnis, Indianapolis.

Col. Henry L. Turner,
Chicago.

Dr. A. R. Tucker,
Greensburg.

Col. Richard M. Smock,
Commandant State Soldiers' Home.

Capt. George F. McGinnis, of Indianapolis, is 81 years of age, but he doesn't like to miss an encampment. He notified Fort Wayne comrades that he expected to get a great deal of pleasure out of the meeting here, but stipulated that he was not to be placed on the campfire program for a speech, a song or a story, insisting that his singing days were over. Capt. McGinnis was formerly postmaster of Indianapolis.

General McGinnis has been compelled to hold pretty near a continuous levee at his hotel since he reached the city, for hundreds of the veterans have pressed forward to grasp his hand. "I want to see them all," said General McGinnis, "but the surprising thing to me is that so many of the old boys seem to know me, though many of their names and faces have slipped from my own memory."

Andrew Fite, a member of the council of administration, is a resident of New Albany. He is of long service in the G. A. R. and of long service as a soldier in the war for the Union. He enlisted in the Sixty-sixth Indiana Infantry in August, 1862, and served under Grant and Sherman to the close of the war. He was promoted to sergeant and then to orderly, and when the First Alabama colored Infantry was raised, was appointed its captain, a place which he declined. Since the war he has been a faithful G. A. R. worker, having held a number of official positions in the order—including senior vice department commander, department inspector in addition to eight years on the council of administration, and now insists that he is only seventy-five years young.

A. R. Tucker, of Noblesville, served four years in the Civil war as a member of company B, Seventeenth Indiana volunteers and company D, Seventeenth Indiana. He was a scout for Wilder's brigade and also for Granger's division of cavalry and Wilson's Cavalry corps for nearly three years. He was 17 years of age when he enlisted in 1861, and served to the close of the war. Mr. Tucker has been an active member of the G. A. R. since 1866. He is a physician in the active practice of his profession at Noblesville, and is a member of the U. S. examining board there.

There was an impression about the state that Dr. Tucker would be a candidate for department commander, but he declared today that he was not in the race, and is earnestly supporting the candidacy of Senator Barlow, of Plainfield.

Capt. Milton Garrigus, of Kokomo, is another of the Indiana veterans who is especially well known, and he is a past department commander of the state G. A. R. "I was well acquainted," said he, "with Col. Robertson, Capt. Hettler, Dr. Ferguson, Col. Zollinger, Col. C. B. Oakley—and somewhat with General Lawton, in the sixties, in the union army."

Rev. D. R. Lucas, of Indianapolis, has been repeatedly honored by his comrades of the G. A. R. and is well known over the state. He served during the war as lieutenant and chaplain of the Ninety-ninth Indiana Infantry, and has been president of the Ninety-ninth Indiana Regimental association for the past sixteen years. He served as past chaplain-in-chief of the national encampment, G. A. R., in 1899, and has been a past department commander of Indiana since 1904. Rev. Lucas was born January 14, 1840.

C. W. Scott, a member of the council of administration, is a well-known Warsaw veteran, who has long been identified with the G. A. R. organization. He is a past senior department vice commander and has been recently filling an official position at the Jamestown exposition.

William H. Armstrong, senior vice department commander of the G. A. R. for Indiana, is a resident of Indianapolis. He is president of the board of trustees of the Indiana State Normal school at Terre Haute.

Col. Smock is commandant of the splendid home Indiana has provided at Lafayette for its veteran soldiers. He has been an active member of the G. A. R. for many years. For ten years he filled the position of assistant adjutant general in the department.

John D. Alexander, of Bedford, junior vice department commander during the past year, is a lawyer from the stone-quarry town, and he is active in the work of the G. A. R. "I was a candidate for department commander a year ago," said Mr. Alexander, "and while I always enjoy the associations with old comrades, when I see the tremendous responsibility involved in the place, I'm rather glad I did not get votes enough to elect me."

Dr. W. R. King, of Greensfield, is president of the Morton Monument commission and he is particularly anxious that people from all over the state attend the unveiling at Indianapolis July 23. Dr. King was the father of the monument idea, and he has worked unceasingly to carry forward the work. The matter was first broached at the Whona encampment in 1904. Dr. King is a past surgeon general of the Indiana department.

Theodore F. Brown, of Cincinnati, who is a member of the Tennessee department, G. A. R., and has been elected a delegate-at-large from that body to the national encampment, is a former Indiana veteran who is here engaged in a little missionary work that will probably get a good deal of support in Indiana. It is the candidacy of General John T. Wilder, former head of the famous Wilder's Indiana brigade, for national commander. General Wilder is now a resident of Knoxville, Tenn., where he is interested in mines and timber, and has been unanimously endorsed by the Tennessee department, G. A. R., for the national commandment. The rumor has gone out that General Wilder is feeble and infirm, but this is denied by Mr. Brown, who quotes General Wilder as saying: "Tell them if they need me I can come back to Indiana and take out another brigade."

Rear Admiral George Brown, U. S. N., retired, of Indianapolis, is mingling with the G. A. R. veterans. Admiral Brown, who is 71 years of age, and retired nine years ago after forty-eight years of active service in the United States navy, is the only admiral who honors Indiana with his residence. "Of course," said Admiral Brown at the Wayne hotel last evening, "none of my old comrades are members of this organization, but I like to get around and see the old boys of the G. A. R. just the same." Admiral Brown is much interested in the Lawton monument unveiling.

David E. Deem, of Spencer, one of the past department commanders, is a lawyer who finds time to take a lot of interest in G. A. R. affairs. He is pleased with the Fort Wayne meeting. "There's nothing wrong about it but the weather which was given us Wednesday," said Mr. Deem.

Charles W. Wheat, city forster of Indianapolis, who is attending the encampment, served in the border warfare on the Kansas-Missouri line. He was also one of John Brown's raiders.

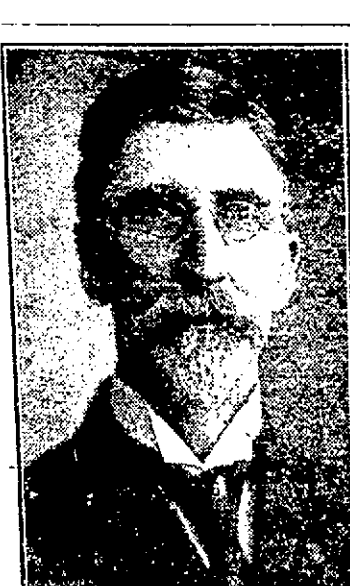

Major D. B. Kehler, adjutant of the State Soldiers' home at Lafayette, and a former well-known Fort Wayne man, is here to participate in the encampment proceedings and to meet old friends.

Major General James M. Lea, of Greencastle, is another visitor of prominence. He was the only Indiana soldier to attain that rank in the regular army during the civil war.

high honors for John B. Cockrum, who will be the candidate of the Indiana Grand lodge for the office of grand sire of the Sovereign Grand lodge at the next national communication of the order.

The report of W. H. Leedy, grand secretary, showed that the total membership of the order at the end of last year was 72,975, the net gain for the year being 3,087. The total number of lodges was 735, the net gain being seven. The total receipts were given as $359,137.52, and the total gross resources as $3,698,910.91, from which is deducted an indebtedness of $521,804.29, leaving the amount of total net resources $3,177,106.62.

Reports were also made by Elmer E. Hastings, of Washington, deputy grand master; William A. Morris, of Indianapolis, grand treasurer and the grand trustees, Benjamin Franklin, M. A. Chipman and Enoch G. Hogate. The visitors to the Grand lodge meeting were the guests of honor at a dinner held last night at the Grand hotel. Following this was degree work exemplified by teams from the lodges at Rockville, Elwood and Greensburg.

CITY SIZES WATER PLANT.

Company Shut Down Operations at Salem, Ohio.

Salem, O., May 23.—Mayor Carle and the fire department yesterday afternoon took forcible possession of the Salem Water company's plant, started the fires and resumed the service twenty hours after the company, chagrined over its failure to obtain a new franchise at increased rates, put out the fires and ordered a suspension of service. The city was without water for domestic or fire fighting purposes. The city's legal department procured a mandatory injunction ordering the company to resume service until council can deliberate and act on the franchise submitted.

AN ATROCIOUS CRIME.

New York, May 23.—Amelia Stiefeldt, 15 years old, was outraged and murdered on the outskirts of her father's farm in Elmhurst, Long Island, yesterday afternoon. The crime was committed in a lonely spot where the girl had wandered in search of dandelions, and the weapon used was the kitchen knife which she carried with which to sever the flowers. The body when found by Joseph Engle, a farm hand, was half stripped of clothing and bore the evidence of a revolting assault and the struggle which the girl had made.

YEAR HAS BEEN ONE OF GROWTH TO W. R. C.

Convention Begins Work With Addresses and Reports.

The Indiana department of the Women's Relief corps held the opening session of its twenty-fourth annual convention in the First Baptist church at 10 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Alice E. Waugh, of Tipton, the department president, was in the chair, and delegates were present from the local organizations all over the state.

Other officers include Jessie Grove, secretary, Tipton; Dr. Mabel Teague, treasurer, Indianapolis; Mary Mitchell, senior vice president, Lafayette; Emma Studebaker, junior vice president, Bluffton; Sarah Kivett, chaplain, Sullivan; Edythe Alice Wilcox, inspector, Lapel; Mary J. Hadley, counselor, Indianapolis; Lydia McComb, I. and I. officer, Warsaw; Blanche G. Gould, patriotic instructor, Crawfordsville, and Meribah E. Walker, press correspondent, Clinton.

The President's Address. In her annual address the department president, Mrs. Alice E. Waugh, made acknowledgment of the kindness and ready hand of help which had been extended by members of the corps during the past year, and called attention to the fact that the past year had been one of remarkable harmony. Regret was expressed at the disbandment of some of the corps, and there was a recommendation that every energy be exerted in enlisting young members that they may take up the work as older members are forced by age to lay it down, thus perpetuating the cause of patriotism and charity, and the memory of those who gave their lives for our own America.

She expressed gratification that there has been some growth in the department during the past year. Six corps were organized and others are in line for organization. On the last quarterly report of March 31 there was an enrollment of 7,124 in good standing. In the past two weeks two other corps have been organized with a membership of 37, making the total membership 7,161, an increase over last year of 130, five corps having disbanded.

Finances Are Guarded. Mrs. Waugh declared that the department officers have aimed to economize and carefully guard the treasury, and of the $150 for department expenses at the national encampment, $16 was turned back into the treasury. Inspection, as a rule, has been well done. The holding of district conventions was commended, and there was a report from the national convention. Conditions both at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan's home and the State Soldiers' home were commended. Relief to the total of $6,370 was extended during the year by the corps in the department, and it is cited that there was no special call this year for help as was the case last year in the great disaster at San Francisco, to which the W. R. C. so generously responded.

Commends Patriotic Instructions. Referring to patriotic instruction, Mrs. Waugh said: "This work is yet in its infancy. Although the department of Indiana took the initiative steps in this most commendable enterprise, yet the field is broad, and the sowing of seed so complex, that we would urge our workers not to yield their prestige in this great cause, but to put forth more aggressive efforts in this special line of work. Let us not weary in well-doing until our laws shall make it a criminal offense to flaunt or exalt any flag that will incite lawlessness among any people, no; until we have educated our own as well as aliens in true patriotism which is the highest ideal of good citizenship."

Shows Membership's Gain. The annual report of Mrs. Jessie Grove, secretary of the W. R. C., shows that during the past year the Indiana department gained six new corps as follows: Wadsworth at Franklin, George Rotramel at Carlisle, George Clayton at Linton, William London at Knox, Burnham at Lowell and Gen. Jackson at East Chicago. Five disbanded during the year as follows: John Craig at Jeffersonville, Blinn at Plainfield, W. S. Hancock at Veederburg, Bowman at Hagerstown and S. C. Aldrich at Hudson. The number and membership in good standing of the corps in the state is shown by the report quarterly and is: Second quarter 159 with 6,322 members, third quarter 167 with 6,815, fourth quarter 168 with 6,801 and first quarter 166 with 7,012.

Gains by charter, initiation, transfer and reinstatement were for the second quarter 401, third quarter 896, fourth quarter 532 and first quarter 495, making a total of 2,374. The losses by death, discharge, suspension and delinquency were for the second quarter 1,040, third quarter 473, fourth quarter 506 and first 367. The following is the relief report:

Cash expended in relief, $1,757.12; estimated relief other than money, $3,162.65; number of soldiers assisted during the year, 333; number in soldiers' families assisted during the year, 1,025; number of members assisted during the year, 197; number in members' families assisted during the year, 317. Total number of persons assisted during the year, 1,872.

Makes Acknowledgments. The report concludes with expressions of pleasure at the neat and accurate manner in which the quarterly reports are made out and a number of suggestions are offered for the saving of time, trouble and expense. The correspondence carried on during the year is also given in detail and in closing the secretary says: "To my dear department president I desire to extend my thanks for the honor you conferred in appointing me department secretary. I have performed the duties of the office to the best of my ability and with the closing of the year work will hold in remembrance the many pleasant and helpful hours we have spent together."

"I desire also to express my gratitude and appreciation to Dr. Mabel Teague, whom I have learned to love for her many kind and thoughtful suggestions. And to all the corps of the department who have been so prompt in the work of our order and in the expression of good wishes I thank you."

ODD FELLOWS WILL ERECT SPLENDID BUILDING

Fourteen-Story Structure in Indianapolis to Cost
$540,000.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 23.—Pamphlet in the proceedings of the Indiana Grand lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, now in session, was the report of the building committee appointed last November to prepare plans and award contracts for the erection of a new lodge and office building to supplant the present hall of the order at the northeast corner of Washington and Pennsylvania streets.

The committee reported that plans for a fourteen-story building, prepared by Rubush & Hunter, architects, had been accepted and that conditional contracts had been entered into for the construction of the building to cost approximately $540,000. Approval of the grand lodge was given this afternoon. Tenants of the present building have given consent to move out pending building operations and it is thought that actual work will begin June 1. All financial arrangements have been completed.

The new building will occupy the entire site of the present Grand lodge hall, which has a frontage of 115 feet in Pennsylvania street and of sixty-seven and one-half in Washington street. Though it will have fourteen stories it will be equivalent in height to a fifteen-story building by reason of the high auditorium, which will occupy the top floor.

Over 1,200 Present. More than 1,200 members attended the opening session yesterday morning of the seventy-third semi-annual communication of the Grand lodge of Indiana, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, which was called to order by Jacob Joel, of Crawfordsville, grand master.

Grand Sire Conway declared the Indiana jurisdiction to be the greatest jurisdiction of the country, with the exception of Illinois, and this was said with a smile, as Illinois is the grand sire's home jurisdiction. He said that the order now has a membership of 1,265,000. The one-million mark was passed in 1900.

Tribute to W. H. Leedy. Tribute to the worth of W. H. Leedy, grand secretary of the Indiana Grand lodge, was paid by Mr. Pinkerton, who characterized Mr. Leedy as the best grand secretary in the entire country. The success of the order in Indiana was attributed in large measure to the work of Mr. Leedy during the dozen and more years that he has held office. Both the present grand sire and the past grand sire predicted

Attractive Summer Sweater

Knitted or crocheted sweaters, with penguins, or skirts, will be much worn this year for golfing, tennis and yachting, because they are becoming to the average woman, who looks smarter in a confining jacket than in the blouse effects that have been popular for so many seasons.

One of these new style sweaters shown in this illustration is a particularly striking model, being made on rather original lines, with the front opening on the bias and the plain knitted collar, cuffs and belt line contrasting sharply with the basket stitch of which the body of the wrap is made.

The police are employed by the executive committee of the commercial organizations and the attorneys are appointed at its suggestion.

The committee is determined that law and order shall be restored and that justice shall be meted out to all offenders against persons, property and decency in the streets.

AMONG THE CLERGY.

Coffee Being Replaced by Postum Food Coffee.

"I am the wife of a minister. About three years ago a warm friend, an exemplary mother and the conscientious wife of a minister, asked me if I had ever tried giving up coffee and using Postum Food Coffee. I had been telling her of my excessive nervousness and ill health. She said: 'We drink nothing else for breakfast but Postum, and it is a delight and comfort to have something that we do not have to refuse the children when they ask for it.'"

"I was surprised that she would permit the children to drink even the food coffee, but she explained that it was a most healthful beverage and that the children thrived on it. A very little thought convinced me that for brain work, one should have food and the very best of food."

"My first trial of Postum was a failure. The maid of all work brought it to the table lukewarm, weak and altogether lacking in character. We were in despair, but decided on one more trial. At the second trial we faithfully followed the directions, used four teaspoonsful to the pint of water, let it boil full fifteen minutes after the real boiling began, and served it with rich cream. It was delicious and we were all won."

"I have since sung the praises of Postum Food Coffee on many, many occasions and have induced numbers of friends to abandon coffee and use Postum, with remarkable results. The wife of a college professor said to me a short time ago that nothing had ever produced so marked a change in her husband's health as the leaving off of coffee and the use of Postum in its place."

WILL WAGE WAR ON RUM; KEEP OUT OF POLITICS

Presbyterians at Columbus Endorse Anti-Saloon League.

Columbus, Ohio, May 23.—Following two hours of exciting debate, which, at times, became acrimonious, yesterday the Presbyterian general assembly, which closed one of the liveliest sessions in its history by adopting resolutions during its policy that the permanent committee on temperance shall not embark upon or interfere in political work and endorsing the American Anti-Saloon league. The resolutions commended the league as a "safe, sane and effective organization in the advancement of the great cause of temperance," and pledged to it the fullest co-operation "consistent with the constitution of the church."

Decide to Settle Contest.
When at 3 o'clock, as a special order for the day, the assembly called for the reports of the committee on church polity and temperance, it was evident that a majority of the commissioners were bent upon settling then and for all time the controversy, which has been aroused by the conflict between the permanent temperance committee of the Presbyterian church, which has been instrumental in organizing the Interchurch Temperance federation and the Anti-Saloon league. A program, which sought to defer action on the vital question, had been mapped out by the committee on polity and temperance, but this was overturned quickly when the assembly temporarily put aside the report of the committee on polity and took up the report of the committee on temperance, which had been directed by the assembly to define the duties of the permanent committee on temperance.

Resolutions are Adopted.
The assembly adopted the following resolutions as a substitute for those prepared by the committee, which proposed to create a committee to prepare a definition of the duties of the permanent temperance committee and report to the next temperance assembly.

Whereas, The Presbyterian church has always stood for the separation of the church and state, and the assembly believes that the church in its organized capacity should not, through any of its agencies, be entangled with the political organizations of the state, while urging upon its members as Christian voters to take an active interest in political affairs, bringing to the service of the state a conscientious performance of civic duties; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the assembly declares as its policy that the permanent committee on temperance shall not interfere in political primaries, advocate the election or defeat of candidates for political office, enter into the organization of campaigns, frame bills for presentation to the legislatures, lobby before legislatures or otherwise entangle the church with the political activities of the state, provided that nothing herein may be construed as limiting the constitutional right of petition as guaranteed in our standards.

Whereas, We contend that the church as an organization must continue to do its own temperance work.

Resolved, That the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, United States of America, most heartily commends the American Anti-Saloon league as a safe, sane and effective organization in the advancement of the great cause of temperance and pledges thereto the fullest co-operation consistent with the constitution of the church.

Passes Polity Report.
The report of the committee on church polity was the first called for, and was presented by Rev. Dr. William P. Fulton, of Philadelphia. It reported a resolution declaring the assembly reaffirms the undeviating custom and policy of the church to avoid official representation in non-ecclesiastical bodies.

Rev. Samuel Semple, of Titusville, Pa., proposed that the report of the committee on polity be passed, and

Verdict for Dr. Pierce

AGAINST THE Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boots on," and no doubt hundreds of thousands of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1904) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the standard and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of women's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit against the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal, for $300,000.00 damages.

Dr. Pierce alleged that Mr. Bok, the editor, maliciously published the article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business; furthermore, that no alcohol, or other injurious, or habit-forming, drugs are, or ever were, contained in his "Favorite Prescription"; that said medicine is made from native medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatsoever and that Mr. Bok's malicious statement was wholly and absolutely false.

The retraction printed by said journal, they were forced to acknowledge, that they had obtained analyses of "Favorite Prescription," from eminent chemists all of whom certified that it did not contain alcohol or any of the alleged harmful drugs.

These facts were also proven in the trial of the action in the Supreme Court. But the business of Dr. Pierce was greatly injured by the publication of the libelous article with its great display headings, while hundreds of thousands who read the wickedly defamatory article never saw the humble groveling retraction, set in small type and made as inconspicuous as possible. The matter was, however, brought before a jury in the Supreme Court of New York State which promptly rendered a verdict in the Doctor's favor. Thus his traducers came to grief and their base slanders were refuted.

LIFE RISK MEN RESIGN.
Burnham, of Mutual Reserve, Quits Under Indictment.

New York, May 23.—Frederick A. Burnham, indicted for grand larceny and forgery, tendered his resignation from the presidency of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance society at a meeting of the board of directors yesterday. The resignation was accepted and Archibald C. Hanes, formerly general agent for the Equitable Life Assurance society, was elected to succeed Mr. Burnham.

At the same meeting Geo. D. Eldridge tendered his resignation as vice president, actuary and member of the board of directors. His resignation from the office of vice president was accepted, but he still remains actuary of the company and member of the board of directors. No successor as vice president was chosen today.

Business Girl's Princess Gown.
By Mrs. Jane Ford.

It is necessary that a business girl be well dressed if she is to be successful in her career, and to accomplish this desired result she must know the fitness of things, which, if once mastered, make it possible for her to be quite elegantly gowned on a surprisingly small outlay of money.

One of the first lessons that those of us who must practice economy should learn, is to buy the best of what we get. For instance, purchase a good cotton in preference to a poor silk, and never select a cheap material of any texture in order to be able to afford trimmings; rather make it perfectly plain and have it of a good quality.

Nothing shows a lack of real refinement more than wearing tawdry finery, such as an old evening gown fixed over for business.

It is quite natural for girls to want pretty clothes, and there is no reason why they should not have them if the models are not extremes. Take for instance the princess frocks which are now so much in vogue. The long, unbroken lines are becoming to most of us, and a gown like the one shown in the accompanying illustration will add to varied treatment.

If the frock is to be of a woolen fabric, no better choice can be made than a voile, nun's veiling or challis, as these goods can be worn the year round, with the exception of very warm days. When making a selection, avoid odd shades, which are fashionable for a season only then dropped. The staple colors, dark blue, brown and green, are always worn and are never conspicuous, even though they do not happen to be the novel colors of the season. By making a choice of this kind, one may wear a dress for several successive seasons without going to the extra expense, and taking the risk of having it dyed.

A dark brown or blue voile will give excellent wear. The skirt should have a good lining of same color as the cloth but not necessarily silk. A little bolero jacket like the illustration would add materially to the effect of such a costume. If one can have two, one of taffeta silk for the street and another of ribbon and lace or lace alone for more dressy occasions, all the better. If one does not care for the princess model these ideas can be carried out if the dress is made shirt waist and skirt style.

(These patterns are designed by Mrs. Jane Ford and published by The Independent-Peoples Press, 107 West Twenty-fifth street, New York.)

IRISH STEW

Use for this the ribs of mutton, cut in pieces. Put in a frying pan with a little hot water at first, until the fat begins to fry out, then brown in its own fat. Cut in dice some carrots, turnips and potatoes, keeping the latter separate. Add the carrots and turnips to the meat, together with a sliced onion, two stalks of celery, cut in small pieces, and a cup of canned tomato.

Add boiling water to cover and cook gently about two hours or until tender. About twenty minutes before serving put in a pint of diced potato and two tablespoonsful of minced parsley. When done add a little green pepper, cut in fine strips, thicken with flour diluted with cold water to make a thin paste, season with salt and pepper and serve with or without dumplings. The latter may be baked the same as biscuit or made in this way: Sift together two cupsful of flour, three level teaspoonsful of baking powder and half a teaspoonful of salt. Rub in a tablespoonful of butter, using the tips of the fingers, then add seven-eighths of a cup of milk, mixing quickly with a knife. Drop by tablespoonfuls in a perforated pie tin or buttered slipper, set over the stew, cover tightly and steam without uncovering for twelve minutes.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

The cause of Rheumatism is a sour, acid condition of the blood, brought about by indigestion, chronic constipation, and the accumulation in the system of refuse matter which the natural eliminative organs have failed to carry out. This refuse or waste matter ferments and sours, generating uric acid which is absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and Rheumatism gets possession of the system. One may also be born with a predisposition or tendency to Rheumatism, because like all blood diseases it can be transmitted from parent to child. The aches and pains of the disease are only symptoms which you may scatter or relieve with liniments, plasters, blisters, etc., or deaden with opiates. As soon, however, as such treatment is left off or there is any exposure to cold or dampness, or after an attack of indigestion or constipation, the wandering pains, sore muscles and joints, and tender places on the flesh return, and the sufferer finds that he has merely checked the symptoms while the real cause of the disease remains in the blood. Rheumatism can never be cured while the blood remains saturated with irritating, pain-producing uric acid poison. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by driving the cause out of the blood. It thoroughly cleanses the blood and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and expelling all foreign matter from the system. S. S. S. stimulates and invigorates the blood so that instead of a weak, sour stream, constantly depositing acid and corrosive matter in the muscles, joints, nerves and bones, the body is soothed and nourished by rich, health-sustaining blood, which completely and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. is composed of roots, herbs and barks which possess both purifying and tonic properties—just what is needed in every case of Rheumatism. Book on Rheumatism and medical advice free. DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constant remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Dr. J. C. Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Have you a garden? If so, don't forget when you are sowing seeds that very tiny ones should be only just covered with earth, but that larger ones, like sweet peas and nasturtiums, should be planted quite an inch below the surface. UNITING IN A SINGLE COMPLETE INSTRUMENT THE STUYVESANT PIANO AND THE METRO-STYLE PIANOLA

THE STUYVESANT PIANOLA PIANO is the most moderate priced of the quartette of famous instruments which are revolutionizing the piano industry of the world.

The details of its construction, the scale, the action, the case are under the supervision of the same board of experts that, in the Weber, produce the most perfect pianoforte manufactured.

Besides being a splendid piano, with a full satisfying tone, the STUYVESANT PIANOLA PIANO contains the genuine Metrostyle Pianola. It therefore ranks as the superior of any of the so-called "player-pianos," no matter at what price sold, that are without the vital and exclusive features that have given the Pianola its tremendous prestige and firmly established it as "the standard piano-player of the world."

tion. That was the modest, something-in- "Himself," almost in secret, by some in- faith by more, should now the harvest. The morning report for the day I visited the Home showed a total enrollment of 1,121, of which 387 were current on Thursday, leaving 734 present—248 men and 386 women. I went through all the larger buildings and some of the smaller ones, also visiting several private rooms, and better still, visited with those who occupied them. Nothing there is too good for those who are enjoying its benefits, but it would be heart with pride and joy to note how good the facilities are, and even more, to note how well they are being made to serve the end in view. A building, however fine, is not always a home. Warm heat, comfortable furnishings, beautiful lawns, shady trees, blooming flowers and singing birds do not necessarily constitute a home. Perhaps it is true that a soldier's home never is and never can be a home in the highest sense. Still, I believe that our Indiana State Soldiers' Home approaches the ideal institution of its kind.

Our last legislature, among other appropriations for this Home, gave it $50,000 for a new hospital. This, it is hoped can be built before winter, and will be a great boon to the sick, who are naturally on the edge of death.

Memorial Day.

Our Department Encampment being held so near Memorial Day, being the change in Commanders at a time when neither seems to sustain a very close relation to it. The outgoing Commander had arranged for the general observance last year, and all that has been done to secure a like result this year. A plain infraction of our sacred duty, really, shocking profanation, was threatened for a while in this department. It caused more pain and annoyance among those high in the councils of the department, on account of the men responsible for it, the indifference evident on their part in planning as they did and the income of the day, and not a holiday, that it should be infringed upon and our sensibilities wounded as was proposed—and by the men who were planning to do it. It was indeed hard to bear. But, happily, there were men who, when advised of the situation, could not be made parties to such a thing, and they urged it to them that Memorial Day now promises to be fittingly observed in every part of Indiana.

Woman's Relief Corps.

In common with all my predecessors I have nothing but words of commendation for our ladies' auxiliary, the Woman's Relief Corps. Our Department is under obligations to Mrs. Waugh, their president, and many of the members, for their devoted and efficient service. Our Grand Army has already taken on pattern from the Woman's Relief Corps in some respects and might well do so in others. The originality at which they manifest in their work, is a revelation to us.

Of all the millions of people living under the night sky of old Glory, who salute it with reverence and awe, and who exult in it as a place of honor to the soldiers of the Civil War? Yet, in its Post meetings and its ritualistic services, the Grand Army of the Republic makes a very meager respect for the flag and shows no respect for the Corps. Our Grand Army has already taken on pattern from the Woman's Relief Corps in some respects and might well do so in others. The originality at which they manifest in their work, is a revelation to us.

cided at today's sessions, instead of deferring it until tomorrow.

Sat Down On the Idea.

This would have brought the Fort Wayne meeting to a close this evening. But when the council of administration went into session at the Wayne hotel at 5 o'clock Wednesday evening to formulate the business program for the session it promptly sat down upon the proposed innovation and determined that no change should be made in the original program.

The council of administration is headed by Judge Samuel M. Hensch, of Fort Wayne, and other members are W. M. Cochran, of Indianapolis; Andrew Fite, of Evansville; Charles Meyerhoff, of New Albany, and C. W. Scott, of Warsaw.

It is expected that the business of the encampment today will progress to the point of electing delegates and alternates to the national encampment which meets at Saratoga this year.

Campaign Continues Lively.

The campaign both for the position as department commander and for the location of the next encampment continues at the hottest sort of a pace, and a good many of the old veterans are demonstrating that they are shrewd politicians, as well as brave soldiers. The race for department commander between Hon. W. A. Ketcham, of Indianapolis, and Hon. J. M. Barlow, of Plainfield, is the closest sort of a contest, and friends of each of these veterans are laboring assiduously in the interest of their favorites. Indianapolis, with its big George H. Thomas post, is of course lined up for Mr. Ketcham, and his friends insist that he will win when the ballots are cast tomorrow. But Mr. Barlow's friends view the situation differently. They are working quite as hard as the Ketcham forces, and assert that the Plainfield man will land the honor. Candidates for other positions have been practically lost sight of in the race for first position.

In the contest for the next encampment the race also appears to be neck and neck between Marion and Kokomo. Marion has been strongly in evidence from the first and the location of the National Military Home there is a big factor in determining the decision of delegates. Some of the delegates who are laboring for encampment location were advised that in the interest of their men it would be unwise to become too active in the choice of cities for the encampment, and they have eased up in their booming somewhat.

Says Kokomo Will Win.

Mayor Arnett, of Kokomo, who has been in the city since yesterday morning in the interest of his town, expressed the belief today that Kokomo had enough delegates pledged to take the next encampment to that city. Kokomo stock rose perceptibly this morning when the military company, headed by a band and accompanied by a big delegation from the Grand Army post there, as well as the city council and other officials, got into town.

There promises to be but little important legislation at the present session, though it is expected that Knox post will present a resolution urging the national encampment to establish another national military home at Gulfport, Miss.

Wednesday evening a public reception was held in the rotunda of the court house. In the receiving line were the department officers of the G. A. R., the W. R. C. and Ladies of the G. A. R., and thousands of people braved the rainy weather to participate in the event. The big building was thronged with visitors during the entire evening, and the band from the Knights-town Orphans' home played a concert program.

ADDITIONAL SOCIETY.

The Young Men's Friendship society of St. John's Reformed church will meet tomorrow night at the school hall, corner of Washington and Webster streets.

Little Lenore Dinis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Dinis, celebrated her seventh birthday anniversary yesterday afternoon by having a lovely little party. BATTERY MOURNS THE DEATH OF ITS CAPTAIN Tribute is Paid to Memory of Dead by His Comrades.

The meeting of the Eleventh Indiana Battery and Company E, of the Ninth Indiana, held jointly in Vordermark hall at 9 o'clock this morning was saddened by the fact that the death of Capt. The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That we engrave upon the tablets of our memories the good and kind and patriotic deeds of our departed comrade; that we renew our pledge of fealty to the Flag and Country he loved so well; that we cherish until death the glorious, hallowed associations of the past that we extend to the bereaved family of our late comrade in arms our sincere condolence and sympathy; and that a copy of these resolutions be filed among the records of our association and that a copy be sent to the family of our deceased comrade and commander.

NEW FOOD LAW
IN STATE

Results of Recent Inspections in Indiana Shown in Report.

Indianapolis, May 22.—There is one small grain of comfort to be found in the compilation of inspection results in the state since the new pure food and general sanitation law went into effect; none of the drug stores that have been inspected were found to be in the lowest class as far as sanitary aspects were concerned—denominated bad.

H. E. Bernard, chemist of the state board of health, and state food and drug commissioner, has made a compilation of the 1,006 inspections made by the food and drug inspectors. In this number 165 were of drug stores, of which seven were classified "excellent," ninety-one were "good," sixty "fair," seven "poor," and none "bad."

The greater number of the inspections made showed conditions that were "fair." This includes inspections made of dairies, groceries, meat markets and slaughter houses, hotels and restaurants, bakeries and confectioneries. Above this average line of fair are the good and the excellent classifications, and below it are the poor and the bad classifications.

Of the twenty-nine dairies, four were excellent, eight were good, seventy fair, five poor and only two bad. Of the 357 groceries, fifteen were excellent, 120 were good, 181 were fair, thirty-one were poor and ten were bad.

Only three of the 220 meat markets and slaughter houses were classified as excellent. Fifty-eight were good, 134 fair, fifteen poor and ten actually bad. Even the hotels did not come up as the commissioner desired, only six being in the excellent class. Forty-five were in the good class, fifty-six fair, twenty-eight poor and four bad.

Bakeries and confectioneries were examined to the number of ninety-five. Of this number two were excellent, thirty-eight good, forty-one fair, twelve poor and two bad.

"It will be noticed that only few places are in a really excellent condition," said H. E. Bernard, food and drug commissioner. "By that we mean absolutely clean, well ventilated, lighted and entirely sanitary in every respect. Rather more than a third of the inspection revealed good conditions; nearly half were only in fair condition, that is, the floors, walls and ceilings were not clean, the stores were not properly ventilated and lighted or in some way conditions were present that might easily be remedied, and yet, because of carelessness or neglect on the part of the proprietor, were allowed to remain in a condition which can only be considered at the best as fair. About 10 per cent of the places were in poor condition and were condemned."

"Wherever conditions were found to be poor or bad, proprietors were notified by the inspectors to put their places in proper shape at once. Five buildings devoted to the slaughtering of animals were condemned and ordered destroyed as being entirely unsuitable for the production of food.

Exposure of Food Tabooed.

"In addition to the inspection work, wherever confectionery, bread pastry, shelled nuts or other food prepared and ready for consumption was displayed uncovered and exposed to dust and dirt the inspectors gave orders to remove the goods from sale until suitable goods or covers were provided."

"The work done during April, the first month since the passage of the law, and with a corps of inspectors entirely new to the work, has been most satisfactory. I think that we are entering a field hitherto almost entirely neglected in this state, and it is of the greatest importance to the health and sensibilities. The housewife who has insisted upon the most scrupulous cleanliness in her kitchen, and who would not think of leaving food exposed on the table in her own dining room, has perhaps been careless of the conditions surrounding the production and sale of foods of the same character in public places. As the result of her failure to insist upon the same conditions at her grocer's or meat market, as she demands in her own home, dealers have perhaps grown careless in the display of their wares. It is gratifying for us to learn that there is rarely any objection made to the orders of our inspectors, but on the contrary a willing desire to comply with all reasonable requests."

Out of the North, the loyal North,
They came at the Chieftain's call;
On fields of flame in Freedom's name
They forced Rebellion's fall.
Shoulder to shoulder they pressed along,
Thrilling the land with their marching song;
Strident the drum with its pulsing beat,
Rhythmic the fall of the tramping feet;
Shews of manhood under the blue,
Ready and eager, and fearless and true:
Loyalty's tide, with resistless flow,
Swept through the mists of the long ago.

1907.

Slowly they came with throb of drum,
The flag with its scars above;
In memory's name the loyal flame
They feed from the cruse of love.
Shoulder to shoulder they come in view,
Side by side in the dear old blue;
Halting and bent, and with faltering foot,
Onward they plod through the cheering street;
Burdens of age under blouses of blue—
Many the dead, and the living so few!
Loyalty's army, remnant of yore,
Drifts towards the mists of the silent shore.

WILD ANIMAL EXPERT
TAKES PRESIDENT
TO TASKNature Student Long Hints
That President is a Coward.

Stamford, Conn., May 23.—Rev. Dr. William J. Long yesterday gave out an interview in reply to President Roosevelt's criticism of his nature books. He intimates the president is angry because he dared to criticize his method of slaughtering game promiscuously. He also says the president is taking up the cudgels in behalf of John Burroughs, the naturalist with whom Dr. Long carried on a bitter controversy a few years ago. Burroughs and President Roosevelt are close friends.

Dr. Long says the Roosevelt article, which is headed "Nature Fakirs," is itself a fake, that it is venomous and cowardly, and that its preparation showed the president's "colossal vanity." He says it's a pity that all animals won't act just as President Roosevelt prescribes, but it is a fact they don't. The president's article, he declares, judged on its merits apart from his high position, would have been thrown in the waste basket.

"I have no desire for a controversy with the president of the United States," said Dr. Long. "I have a profound respect for that office, which is not modified or changed in the least by any man occupying the office. The point is, that a man named Roosevelt has gone out of his way to make a violent attack upon me and my books. Ordinarily I ignore such attacks. If you read the article, even carelessly, you will see it is in a personal, venomous spirit, while its literary style makes it fit for the waste basket. There is not a magazine in the country which would print it on its own merits. Were it not for President Roosevelt's official position no attention would be paid to the article."

Calls Roosevelt a Coward.

"President Roosevelt arranged for this interview and, as I was informed by the magazine, revised the proofs, from the gross personal slanders at the beginning to the unfounded charge at the end. In concealing himself behind an alleged interview, and using his position to attack a man of whose spirit he knows nothing, his article seems to me not only venomous but a little cowardly—just as when he hides behind a tree and kills three bull elk in succession, leaving their carcasses to rot in the woods."

"The next thing manifest in the article, even to the most casual reader, is personal animosity. The whole weight of his attack falls on one man."

"Now, the reasons for this are perfectly plain. Some years ago a violent attack was made upon me and my books by one of President Roosevelt's friends. That attack was met and every honest argument it contained frankly answered. But that was not enough. Mr. Roosevelt, with that love of peace which characterizes him, immediately jumped into the conflict, and in the preface to his last book goes far out of his way for the sake of repeating his friend's attack."

"Then, again, a short time ago I wrote a series of articles in which I attempted to look upon human life from an animal's standpoint. In one of these I considered the subject of hunting. In this article it seemed to a simple mind without prejudice as if the promiscuous slaughter of game which, as Mr. Roosevelt claimed, develops heroism and manly virtue, was, in reality, a sort of brutal thoughtlessness."

Heroes Who Hunt Rabbits.

"Those who care to read the article will find it in the chapter on 'Heroes Who Hunt Rabbits' in 'Brier Path Philosophy.'"

"Mr. Roosevelt has never forgiven a poor animal who dared to criticize his hunting, and twice to my knowledge has declared to his associates that he would 'get even,' and even 'do me up.'"

"The magazine article is the fulfillment of his declaration. Hence we can understand its spirit perfectly. As for the argument in the article it is precisely like its predecessors, a series of dogmatic utterances and denials without a shred of positive evidence to support them. He calls for evidence, but forgets the fact that his predecessors in their attacks did the same thing, and that the evidence was instantly produced."

Dr. Long here gives some of that evidence, and continues: "Mr. Roosevelt, in the same spirit, makes attacks upon certain statements concerning Canadian lynx and the great white wolf of the north, declaring positively that certain things recorded of them never happened."

Dr. Long, opening one of Roosevelt's books, continued:

"Now, see what Roosevelt himself says: 'Wolves show an infinite variety in spite and temper. Again: 'The differences between related animals are literally inexplicable.'"

"It seems almost unkind to point out that Roosevelt never saw either a Canadian lynx nor a white wolf in their own woods. One thing, he declares to be a mathematical impossibility, that a huge wolf should kill a small deer by biting into the deer's chest. Now, those who have ever dressed a deer have noticed the lower part of the chest narrows to a wedge shape. When the shoulder blades slide forward or back they leave this narrow part of the chest exposed, and it would be the simplest thing in the world for any large animal to get in a deadly blow."

Cites Case in Point.

"So much for the mathematical possibility. Now for the facts. I once came upon a small deer lying in the snow, still living, but bleeding from tooth wounds on the under side of its chest. From the deer the tracks of a large wolf led off into the woods. It probably had heard or smelled me and had slunk away within a few moments of the time I found its victim. More than this, an Indian with whom I explored the interior of Newfoundland tells me that twice he had seen a huge white wolf kill caribou fawns in this way. That this is an unusual method of killing is true, but that it is both possible and probable remains a fact, despite Mr. Roosevelt's denial."

"It is a pity," says Dr. Long, "that animals and men do not conform in their habits to the president's dictates, but the fact is they don't."

"In a word, Mr. Roosevelt is not a naturalist but a game killer. Of the real habits of animal life, as discovered by quiet watching, with no desire to kill, he knows nothing, and he never will learn until he goes into the woods leaving his pack of dogs, his rifle, his prejudice and his present disposition behind him."

SHOP AND RAIL

Day's Happenings in the Industrial World

WILL ENTERTAIN FORT WAYNE.

Lamp Factor to Be Scene of Banquet and Grand Ball.

John T. Simpson, president of the American Concrete-Steel company, engineers and contractors, the builders of the first lamp factory for the General Electric company now in course of erection on Clinton, Holman and Montgomery streets, writes Assistant Superintendent Joseph Shore, who has charge of the construction work, that if he will have the building under roof July 4, he will give a public reception in it. Mr. Simpson writes that one floor will be fitted with tables and chairs for luncheon for the visitors and another floor will be cleared of all articles and made one immense dance hall, where the finest orchestra in the city will furnish music during the day and evening for all who wish to dance. Mr. Simpson also says that he will bring the best band he can secure at Pittsburgh and will give concerts both afternoon and evening on the fourth for the benefit of the people of Fort Wayne. The walls and floor supports of the first story are practically complete and workmen are busy today taking down the frames and exposing the handsome concrete walls to view. Superintendent Shore says that work upon the next story will commence tomorrow morning. He had hopes to commence it at noon today, but most of the workmen wanted the day off to attend the encampment. He says that he will have the building ready for the reception mentioned on the fourth, but there will still be some finishing touches to put upon it. He is quite enthusiastic on the reception proposition and will exert every effort to be ready for it. He said: "Tell the people of Fort Wayne we want them to be our guests on the fourth." The work of taking down the wooden frames which formed the molds for the walls commenced on Clinton street this morning and by night a good portion of all of it on that street and Holman street will be down and the passers-by can form a pretty correct idea of the magnificent appearance the building will make when it is finished.

ONCE RESIDED IN FORT WAYNE.

J. L. Daugherty, traveling emigration agent of the Northern Pacific, is in the city for the double purpose of looking after business and participating in the encampment, for he is a veteran and a member of the G. A. R. Away back in the sixties Mr. Daugherty resided in Fort Wayne and worked at the building trade and among the buildings he assisted in erecting was the Wagner block on Calhoun street, opposite the court house. That was in 1888, and that year the first

G. A. R. was organized in Fort Wayne and Mr. Daugherty was a member. Others who were also members were Col. R. S. Robertson, Col. Humphrey, Col. Oakley and Jim Humphrey. The meetings were held in the third story of the building now the Sidel block. That was several years before the organization of Sion S. Bass post, Mr. Daugherty says. He left here in 1870, but has been a frequent visitor since and is quite well known to the older residents.

SUMMONED TO RICHMOND.

P. F. Landy, a gang foreman at the Pennsylvania erecting shop, and his wife were married at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, on Franklin avenue. B. F. Ruch, a fellow workman of the groom, acted as groomsmen and several other shopmen were guests, including being M. E. Warner and T. V. Romy. Mr. Sarber is a truck-builder and is employed in the Pennsylvania shops.

SHOPMAN MARRIED.

Miss Arvilla Handenschild and M. A. Sarber were married at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, on Franklin avenue. B. F. Ruch, a fellow workman of the groom, acted as groomsmen and several other shopmen were guests, including being M. E. Warner and T. V. Romy. Mr. Sarber is a truck-builder and is employed in the Pennsylvania shops.

SPECIAL TRAINS TONIGHT.

The Pennsylvania will have two special trains out of the city at 11 o'clock this evening, one eastbound and the other westbound, to carry the encampment visitors home. The company had a special in from Plymouth this morning to bring in visitors.

SHOPS CLOSED TODAY.

There is practically nothing doing except at the Bass works in the industrial line this afternoon. With the exception named all of the big factories and railway shops that did not close down all day, closed at noon.

HUGHES UTILITIES BILL IS ENACTED IN NEW YORK STATE.

Governor's Measure Wins in Empire State by a Large Margin.

Albany, N. Y., May 23.—After a debate of less than two hours, Governor Hughes' public utilities bill was passed by the senate yesterday afternoon by a vote of 41 to 6. The votes cast against it were all democratic. They were those of Senators Cullen, Hasenflug, Thompson and McCarren, of Kings, Frawley and McManus, of New York. Immediately after the senate had completed its roll call on the bill it was taken over to the assembly, which was in waiting. Without debate the bill was called up and in less than two minutes by a quick roll call the assembly unanimously concurred in the amendments. The measure was now passed by the legislature will be sent to Mayor McClellan at once.

The time occupied in passing the bill in both houses today was less than three hours. The bill was reported to the senate in the morning by the finance committee, and with it was read the first "emergency" message of Governor Hughes certifying the existence, in his opinion, of a public necessity for the immediate passage of the bill. The bill was placed on the order of final passage, but parliamentary objections made by Senator McCarren (democrat of Kings) delayed action for a time.

Way Had Been Prepared. In a thoroughly perfunctory fashion, which showed the result had been discounted, the senate later took up the bill, which was in a slightly different form than when passed by the assembly last week. The amendments which have been made in the bill since then are insignificant, and are satisfactory to Governor Hughes.

The debate over the measure was opened by Senator McCarren, who offered an amendment providing that the mayor should appoint the commissioners for the first district. This was voted down, 32 to 11. Three democrats voting against the amendment. These democrats were Fuller of Kings, Harte of Queens, and Taylor of Orange. This preliminary skirmish indicated, however, that the bill was not to have the unanimous support it had in the assembly.

A second amendment was offered by Senator Cohanlan, democrat, of New York, which provided for the election of the commissioners by a direct vote. His amendment was voted down, 33 to 12. Other amendments also were voted down.

What the Bill Provides.

The bill creates two commissions, the members of which shall be appointed by the governor, with powers to supervise and regulate the operation of public corporations, both in the city and the state of New York—separate bodies for each. In the city of New York the commission supercedes the old rapid transit commission, appointed to which was by the mayor, and for the reason that, in this respect, it touches the New York government, it is submitted for the mayor's approval. It is anticipated that Mayor McClellan will withhold his approval, but as only a majority vote is required to pass a measure over a mayor's veto, and as it is in all respects an administration bill, it cannot fail to become a law.

FAIRBANKS POACHING ON TAFT'S PRESERVES IN OHIO.

Vice President Suspected of Designs to Split Up the Buckeye State.

Chicago, May 23.—Writing from Cincinnati, Ohio, Raymond Patterson, has to say of Ohio politics the following, which is printed in the Tribune: "The vice president attempting to steal Ohio from Taft."

This is the question which is disturbing a lot of Taft boosters just now. Personally, I believe their fears are wholly unfounded, but many of the Taft men are on the lookout for active opposition in the interest of the Fairbanks movement, and some of them think they have already discovered the trail of the serpent across the state.

"It's the one thing, and the only thing, which is not yet cleared up in the Ohio situation," said one of the strongest supporters of the secretary of war, although not one whose name has yet been generally mentioned in connection with the Taft movement. "There is not much positive evidence of Fairbanks' activity in Ohio. Any opposition to Taft in his own state would surely react on Fairbanks or any other man responsible for it at the same time conditions which have faced us all along and which are now facing us identical with those which would be created by a clever Fairbanks manager working under cover."

Conditions Are Peculiar. These conditions, which the Taft men are so suspicious of, may mean a community of interest between Fairbanks and Foraker, are not generally understood outside the state. Taft is reasonably certain now to have the solid delegation from Ohio. At the same time the two senators and many prominent republican leaders refuse to commit themselves to the secretary. Senator Foraker insists now that the state must declare its preference in the good old way.

In other words, the Taft people, through lack of anything approaching formal endorsement by anybody, cannot go out into the rest of the country this summer, or even next winter, to prove that the secretary of war will have his own state solidly behind him.

Until all the district conventions are captured, one after another, and the state convention instructs four delegates at large, Ohio may still be called doubtful from the standpoint of practical politics, because it will still be subject to onslaughts in behalf of other candidates. It is this condition which the Taft men are beginning to suspect may have been created by the friends of Fairbanks, acting through the two Ohio senators, to cast a cloud on the title of the secretary of war to his own state.

Deny Unfounded Move. Meanwhile Indiana already has declared for Fairbanks, and there is no question as to his personal possession of the Hoosier commonwealth at least for this campaign. All the chances are that this condition of affairs in Ohio is the result of purely local conditions. Men in local politics all over the state are afraid that Fairbanks has never made any aggressive move in Ohio except to establish friendly relations as a possible second choice.

In fact, the fact that there is something in the nature of an understanding all along the line that there is to be no invasion of territories, between Ohio, Illinois and Indiana. Second choice privilege is almost more valuable in each case than outright endorsement. If Cincinnati, Fairbanks and Taft are all present and active in the campaign, the latter's favorite sons would be natural for their three big states to present a solid line of battle against any eastern candidate, including Hughes, who might develop an unusual strength. After that, if any one of these three big states might easily start a stampede by suddenly declaring for its own real second choice from a nearby state.

In states like Michigan and Kentucky, however, conditions are different. The Fairbanks and Taft people are clamoring for a month ago. They are still clashing in Tennessee. These two states south of Ohio, are in Taft's old judicial circuit, and he will not take up pretty generally by the lawyers and judges down that way.

Organization Is Seen. It is significant of the Taft campaign everywhere that it is conducted by local influence. Some administration postmasters and revenue officials may have taken a hand in Kentucky without any orders, but the politicians agree that the Kentucky fight came about without interference of the personal representatives of the secretary of war.

On the other hand it is generally known that District Attorney Joseph B. Keating of Indianapolis, who has long been regarded as a Fairbanks local manager, was personally present at the conventions in Kentucky and conducted the fight for the vice president.

In Michigan and Minnesota, as well as in Kentucky and Tennessee, there is evidence that an organized movement for the vice presidency is in existence, while it is reasonably certain that the Taft boom, although personally popular enough, is suffering greatly for lack of intelligent centralized organization. It must be even more of a recognized condition in the far West or on the Pacific coast.

Differences Pointed Out. Fairbanks' strength apparently lies, first in the business element, secondly in the support of Taft's weak points, and partly in his total lack of organization, but more than all because of the many thousands of people who have yet to be fully convinced that Roosevelt is not the candidate. These persons will not declare for Taft until Roosevelt is definitely out of the race.

People who know the president best have the least doubts as to the honesty of his declarations on this subject, but it is apparent in many states that the Taft movement is in a perilous position, and may continue to languish until the president chooses to make another, and evidently final, public declaration. If Taft managers say, there will be a landslide for the secretary of war.

Meanwhile it is undeniable that the Fairbanks engine is building up a series of buttresses, breakwaters, jetties and levees, which may, in the end, prevent the banks caving in to any great extent.

FINE MARBLE DESTROYED.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 23.—Several pieces of fine marble being carved at the works of George W. Maltby & Sons in this city for the McKinley mausoleum at Canton, O., were ruined completely by fire which destroyed the plant early today. The completion of the mausoleum will not be delayed, according to Mr. Maltby. The loss on the plant will reach $50,000.

The members of Typographical union No. 78 will meet at the Federal union rooms in the Bank block tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock to make arrangements for their memorial services which will occur next Sunday.

SEEKING PERMANENT PEACE IN WAR OF TELEPHONE

Forthcoming Meeting in Chicago Expected to End Conflict.

Chicago, May 23.—Details of a plan to bring lasting peace into the relations of two great warring elements in the telephone business of the United States and Canada are to be revealed in Chicago ten days hence, when the annual convention of the International Independent Telephone association will begin at the Auditorium hotel. Three entire floors of the big hotel have been reserved for the 1,000 delegates to attend the convention and the manufacturers of telephone apparatus who plan electrical displays for Chicago's visitors. The convention may commit the country's $350,000,000 independent telephone interests to a program of peace with the Bell interests which they have fought for years.

The Indiana Idea. The method by which competition fatal to dividends is to be done away with is known among independent telephone managers as the "Indiana idea." It is the latest development from the struggle for supremacy in that state, where the independents have nearly 200,000 telephones in operation. The Bell interests have proposed to withdraw from all competitive towns in Indiana except two provided the independent companies will take the Bell lines into their switchboards and deliver to the Bell companies such toll business as can not be sent over independent lines.

Telephone men expect that if the Indiana independents will agree to the compromise offer of the Bell interests the latter will follow the agreement by a proposition to Ohio independents similar to that in Indiana. The result promises to be better service for hundreds of thousands of telephone users all over the country and more profits for the hitherto warring interests.

Independents Will Go Ahead. Although the independent companies will discuss a business arrangement designed to restrict competition to some extent there will be no general cessation of effort to extend the independent lines. Telephone development of the country, the independents contend, depends largely upon competition. As proof of this they point to Kansas City, a competitive town, which has 22,000 more telephones than Washington, a noncompetitive city with 70,000 more population. Like argument is presented by the figures from Minneapolis and Cleveland, which, combined, have 712,000 population, but support more telephones than Boston, a noncompetitive city with 1,307,000 population.

In considering Washington's telephone situation the independent interests are hopeful. Success of a syndicate recently formed to build an independent system in the capital city will mean that users of independent telephones all over the country can talk with their representatives at the seat of government by wire soon. Independent lines now extend to Alexandria, Va., less than fifteen miles from the white house. When this gap is filled conversation with points in Colorado in the west, North Dakota in the northwest, Texas in the southwest and Florida in the south, will be possible from Washington over independent lines. It would affect 3,500,000 users of independent phones.

The telephone convention, to continue three days, will be called to order on June 4 by President James B. Hoge, of Cleveland. Representatives of thirty state organizations of independents, having a total of 7,000 companies on their membership lists, will be present.

ATTACK GUARD AND ESCAPE.

Thirteen Workhouse Prisoners at Toledo Gain Their Liberty.

Toledo, Ohio, May 23.—Overpowering Guard Trempt, whom they brutally assaulted with their fists, thirteen prisoners at the workhouse made their escape yesterday.

The escape had been carefully planned and the attack was so sudden that the other guards were taken unaware. Only prompt action on the part of the other guards prevented a wholesale delivery of all the prisoners employed in the brickyard.

The escaped men were employed on the brick machine and guarded by Trempt. Without warning all hands sprang upon the guard and he was overpowered, choked and beaten. The prisoners made a wild dash toward the fence and after knocking off the boards made their escape toward a railroad bridge. After crossing on the ties they went in different directions.

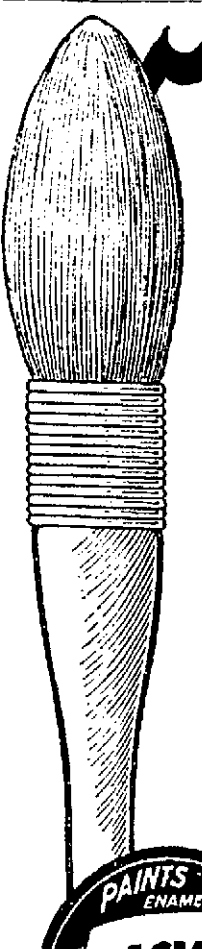

Immediately after the escape had been made known armed guards from the workhouse were sent in pursuit of the men. The Toledo police, as well as the police and constables of the surrounding country were immediately notified.

Last night a report reached the city to the effect that police mounted on motor cycles overtook two of the prisoners at Air Line Junction and placed them under arrest. One of the captured men is said to have been the leader in the delivery. All the prisoners who escaped were attired in the regulation prison uniform.

Louis Schirmeyer, chairman of the committee on street and building illuminations, requests that the downtown merchants leave their windows lighted all night. A number of them failed to do this last night and as he had no opportunity to see them in person he made the request through the newspapers.

BETTER CIGARS FOR LESS MONEY.

This is the Reason Why Ranke & Nussbaum Recommend Wadsworth Bros' Cigars.

"In the last few months," said Mr. Ranke, of Ranke & Nussbaum, "we have gained a wonderful sale for Wadsworth Bros' Cigars." These cigars give better value for the money than any other we have ever seen. Our pride in giving our customers the best goods for the least money made us recommend the Cigars to those who were smoking ten or fifteen cent goods.

Cigars have a long Havana filler, burn freely with a pleasant fragrance and are a mild and enjoyable smoke that pleases the most fastidious. "It is only about once in a hundred time," he continued, "that we find a cigar equal to its manufacturer's claims, but in Cigars we found one even better, one that fully confirmed what Wadsworth Bros. asserted, a better cigar for less money."

It sells for five cents straight and as we said before, we recommend it to all who want a good cigar no matter what the price. M-23-28-30
